LAST WEEK of the campaign, ladies and gentlemen of the United States. One week from today you vote, and say, "Thank heaven, that's over. Let's hope for prosperous, peaceful times."

A week from tomorrow or next day you will know who, if anybody, is elected. It is possible to make one certain prediction. The votes cast will elect Coolidge, or they will not elect anybody. Mr. Davis cannot possibly be elected, nor can Mr. La Follette. Both of them know that, and every politician knows it.

If the vote for Coolidge is not sufficient to elect him, then nobody will be elected, and the election will go into the House of Representatives. No candidate has a majority there. The Senate will elect a Vice-President. Then for weeks, perhaps months, the parties in the House of Representatives will vote, dicker and try to wear out each other's patience.

How much that process would help the country, each voter will decide for himself. It wouldn't help much.

THE ODDS are 3 to 1 that President Coolidge will carry California by 75,000. Californians report a change in public sentiment there, due largely to President Coolidge's emphatic confirmation of the policy of Asiatic exclusion, and his statement that the League of Nations will not be allowed to write the Immigration laws of the United States.

CALIFORNIANS LOOKING across the Pacific toward Asia know that for them the one necessity in the development of their magnificent empire is the right to control immigration.

With freedom from Asiatic immigration, California will be a nation of at least thirty millions of white people. With the immigration laws broken down it would be a land of fifty million Asiatics, and no white people.

FORD GETS things done. He loads tractors, cars and trucks on his own ships, at River Rouge, in the heart of this country, a thousand miles from the ocean. The first boat, The Onondaga, will sail in a few days from the Ford plant to Buenos Ayres, South America.

Another Ford ship, Oneida, will carry cargoes from Ford plants in Detroit to Jacksonville, Fla., New Orleans and Houston, Tex. Ford is to be thanked for showing the people of this country what ought to be done and CAN be done.

THE GOVERNMENT, which found so many billions for the wars of other people in Europe, ought to find a few dollars for building the canals that this country needs. One canal would unite the lakes and the Mississippi valley with the Gulf and the Pacific via Panama. Another canal for ships unites the lake country with the Atlantic. "Every big American city a seaport" should be our motto.

THE REVEREND DR. STRATTON, a firm believer, suggests that a shark, not a whale, may have swallowed Jonah. The Bible doesn't say "a whale." It only says "a great fish." A shark has been known to swallow a deer whole, the deer subsequently being found in the shark's stomach. If a deer, why not Jonah? asks the Reverend Dr. Stratton.

BUT WHAT about the shark's gastric juice and its effect on Jonah's skin? In Jonah, chapter 1, 17th verse, it says: "And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights." There is the real miracle. Why was he not digested, or smothered?

There is an answer. It says: "Now, the Lord has prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah." It was evidently a fish "especially prepared." It might have had a stomach as big as a dining room, with special ventilation ar-

DEXTER ART TREASURES FOR HUB

Collection Rivaling Mrs. Jack Gardner's Goes to Museum; Big Fund for Harvard

Bequests of art treasures and money to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and to Harvard College, respectively, are contined in the will of Mrs. Susan Greene Dexter, filed in Suffolk Country Registry of Probate.

Mrs. Dexter was the widow of Gordon Dexter of No. 171 Commonwealth avenue.

By her bequest the museum will receive paintings and other objects of art said to surpass those of the late Mrs. John L. Gardner. Harvard College will receive large sums of money to be used for scientific research and for purchase of books.

The will directs that the Museum of Fine Arts shall have a portrait of Lord Lyndhurst and twenty-three pictures and sketches painted by John Singleton Copley, great-grandfather of Mrs. Dexter.

OTHER HISTORIC WORKS.

Other paintings given the Art Museum are a portrait of Lady Middleton by Van Dyke, Madonna by Andrea del Sarto, portrait of Mme. Pourtraire, Market Scene in Holland by Breughel, Saal Reproved by Samuel; the Ascension of Christ, the Office of the Crown to Lady Jane Grey, and Margaret Safford, wife of Governor Hutchinson.

Other works of art given to the Museum are a gilt sofa and two gilt armstairs from the Tuileries at the time of the revolution; sofa and eight chairs, Aubusson tapestry; Louis XV. commode; Louis XVI. commode, with mantel, Louis XV., with hearth and andiron; long mahogany writing desk with leather top, Louis XV.; two commodes, Louis XV and Louis XVI., with high dark blue Sevres vase standing on each.

VENETIAN TREASURE.

Gilt commode, Venetian, old gilding; two commodes, Louis XV.; two bookcases, Louis XIII.; round, Louis XV. table, with white marble top; semi-circular table, Louis XVI.; small escotoire, Louis XVI.; oak commode, Louis XVI., and Japanese vase in form of a lily standing on the commode; Louis XIII. tapestry, with design of animals and columns; and cartel desk, Louis XVI.

Mrs. Dexter, who died on Sept. 15, leaving as her only heir-at-law, a son, Gordon Dexter, who resides in Beverly.

Mrs. Dexter made her will on March 21, 1912, an seven codicils were later signed by her. Two of these relate to the appointment of

PASSENGER ROBBED OF $9,000

Wallet Stolen From Man on Train Bound From Boston to Montreal

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 8.—A wallet containing two diamond rings and $9,000, made up of $3,000 in cash, a bank draft for $5,000 and a check for $1,000 disappeared from the trousers of a passenger on the Boston to Montreal flyer early today.

Local police officers were summoned to meet the train when it arrived here and the Rutland sleeper was searched without success.

A. Bronfon of No. 4934 Western avenue, Montreal, is the passenger who asserts to have lost the wallet while sleeping.

According to Bronfon, the wallet was in his trousers pocket when he threw that garment over the back of his berth after the flyer pulled out of Boston.

POLL SHOWS NO SHIFT FROM COOLIDGE

In Massachusetts, Senator La Follette maintains his slight lead over John W. Davis in the Presidential Preference Poll taken by the Boston American.

In Rhode Island, the accumulated figures of ten days past appear to say that the La Follette boom in certain parts of the State has subsided. This may not be the fact, but it is what the figures indicate.

No one questions the correctness

Defeat of Labor Means Revolt, Shaw Says

London, Oct. 28 (Universal)—George Bernard Shaw, warning Britain that an immense revolution would be the consequence of a return of the Conservatives to power at Wednesday's elections, said:

"Let me tell you that only the Constitutional Labor Party stands between you and revolution today. A return of the Conservative government will bring revolution. If it is returned Premier MacDonald will be discredited, but when the blood and destruction and horror are done you will have MacDonald back again."

$33.20 INCOME TAX PAID BY 'CAM' FORBES

Out of the reluctant clutch of Malcolm L. Nichols, local collector of internal revenue, today came a surprise by way of the income tax reports.

W. Cameron Forbes of Boston, former Governor-General of the Philippine Islands, Harvard football coach of the nineties and one of the Hub's biggest "big business men," paid a tax of only $33.20 for 1924.

In contrast, Robert Lincoln O'Brien, editor and publisher of the Boston Herald, kicked in to the Federal Treasury with an allotment of $8,362.99, which represents an approximate taxable income of $55,000 for the year.

FORBES A MYSTERY.

These two names and figures represented a mystery here today on the part of Collector Nichols and his high pressure research office, lowering yesterday's record, which was almost a dozen names.

Despite the popular belief that Forbes was surrounded by personal money, his tax payment represents a total income for the year, on which a tax could be based, of only $2,000 or thereabouts.

As far back as 1904 this worldknown Boston man was declared to have made more money than he could use in a lifetime, for which reason he offered his services to the government.

His appointment as a member of the Philippine Commission and Secretary of Commerce and Police in the Philippines followed. Four years later he was made vice-governor and in 1909 became Governor-General, holding the office until he was sidetracked in 1913 by President Wilson for political reasons.

A REAL BLUE BLOOD

The former Governor-General is a member of one of the Bay State's oldest families. Ralph Waldo Emerson was his grandfather and J. Murray Forbes, Boston abolitionist, was his other grandfather.

He was born in 1870 and was graduated from Harvard in 1892, after hanging up a record as a gridiron star. He coached the Harvard football team for three years and was the Percy Haughton of his day.

Samoset CHOCOLATES "QUALITY OF THEIR OWN"

MUST WAIT TILL HEAVY RAINFALL

Danger of More Forest Fires Too Great, Says Executive Order

The hunting season, recently opened in Massachusetts, was suspended today by Governor Cox, because of the sweep of forest fires.

Hunters now in the woods are ordered back into the open under the suspension, which will continue in effect at least until the first heavy rain soaks the woodlands and averts further fire damage.

Governor Cox's action came as the result of a suggestion from William A. L. Hazeley, commissioner of conservation, the Fitchburg Sportsmen's Club and other organizations and individuals, and follows the ban placed on hunting yesterday in New Hampshire, with the exception of Coos County.

AUTO FETTERS BLAMED.

The Fitchburg Club directors followed the lead today of Commissioner Hazeley in denying that hunters are responsible for the raging forest fires.

The commissioner declared:

"I do not think that the hunters are responsible for the forest fires as much as careless automobilists and petting parties. The latter are especially to be censured, as there is no real necessity for them going into the woods.

"Reports from the fire wardens indicate that they are notoriously careless with cigarettes. It is not quite fair to the hunters to make them responsible for the carelessness of the other two classes.

FORCED TO ACT.

"But since they are the only persons frequenting the woods whom we can reach we feel obliged to remove even their presence, because the situation is so serious. Unless we have rain in two or three days, I will close the hunting season this week. I don't like to do it, but there will be no game to shoot unless we protect the cover from fire. It is the only alternative."

One hundred thousand hunters have been licensed to shoot in Massachusetts this season.

'NONSENSE, I'M NOT A RED,' SHE DECLARES

COUNTESS KAROLYI

Hungarian visitor makes light of the protests over her arrival in the United States, it is now probable that demands for her deportation will not be pressed. The Countess insists that she is not a friend of Bela Kun. She named her two children Adam and Eve, declaring that the world would see a new order of things before they grew up.

New York, Oct. 28.—"Red Catherine? Oh, what nonsense!"

While bolshevik hunters asked for her deportation and social and diplomatic circles were astir, the beautiful young Countess Catherine Karolyi, wife of the president of the short-lived Hungarian Republic, today curled up in a chair in an apartment on West Fifty-seventh street and flashed that answer.

She had stepped ashore from the steamship George Washington into the arms of dozens of enthusiastic Hungarian-American followers of the social democratic program of her husband.

The Countess' rosy cheeks dimpled and her clear gray eyes became lighter with laughter as she exclaimed:

"Red Catherine, indeed! Why, in America I would be classed almost as a conservative. One of my family said to me once they thought I was turning Red because I said I believed the Hungarian peasants should be permitted to own and cultivate a little land.

SO. BOSTON BUILDING SWEPT BY FLAMES

Twelve firemen were overcome by heavy smoke during a fire that raced through four floors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Building, Nos. 555-567 East Broadway, South Boston.

The flames mushroomed on the fourth floor and placed the lives of the fire fighters in grave danger.

The men who were victims of the smoke refused to leave their work and returned to the hose lines after filling their lungs with fresh air outside the building.

Fire was discovered in the barber shop of Tornatova Brothers on the first floor of the building by Patrolmen Doherty and Fitzsimmons of Station 12. The fire burned through the barber shop in to second floor and then through the roof.

Adjoining the building is the Broadway garage in which 200 cars are stored. The firemen had a difficult job in preventing the spread of the fire to the garage.

Ladderman John Burke of Ladder No. 5 was rendered unconscious by the smoke. He was carried to the street and resuscitated but refused to go to a hospital. Other firemen who were affected by the smoke also refused to leave the fire.

HOLYOKE MAN HELD IN SOUTH WITH MISSING GIRL

Holyoke, Oct. 28.—Word was received by Department of Justice agents today that Peter Kornackie, 45, of this city, who disappeared October 2, taking with him bank funds of $4,000 and an automobile, both owned jointly with his wife, is under arrest in Miami, Fla., for violation of the Mann Act. With him is held Miss Eva Melnoski, 22, of South Hadley.

TWO BOYS DROWN NEAR PAWTUCKET, R. I.

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 28.—Two boys were drowned today in the Seekonk River near Buckbin's Island when their boat sprang a leak and sank. The victims were William Bouchard, nine, and his chum, George E. Whitman, seven, both of Phillipsdale, who had rowed across to the island for firewood with George's father, Charles E. Whitman. The elder Whitman clung to the two boys in the water and nearly lost his own life ni attempting to save them.

NEGRO TAKEN FROM JAIL AND SHOT BY MOB OF 200

Prestonburg, Ky., Oct. 28.—"Kid" Shannon, negro, twenty-eight, was shot eighteen times by a mob estimated at 200 men Sunday night at Wayland and died from his wounds, according to information reaching here today. Shannon was charged with having killed a white man. Fifteen men were guarding the jail at the time the negro was seized.

SMOOT OFFERS STOCK AT $3 TO LA FOLLETTE

Washington, Oct. 28.—Replying to repeated attacks by Senator La Follette in connection with the sugar controversy, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah today offered to sell to Mr. La Follette for $3 a share his stock in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company.

Smoot listed the holdings as 440 shares.

Following are some very vital statements made by Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing prison. The warden should know what he is talking about if any one does. He says that "In the six years from 1918 to 1923 only 9 per cent. of 1,820 homicides in New York city resulted in death sentence, and that 50 per cent. more individuals were killed by police than were sent to the electric chair.

"We are passing through a period of disregard for law on all sides and by all classes. We cannot view some forms of lawlessness with complacency without a letting down in the legal machinery all along the line.

"The difficulty of assimilating many foreign elements into our population and the problem of education are closely related. Sixty-five per cent. of the inmates received in Sing Sing in the fiscal year just ended had not reached the eighth grade in grammar school. And this illiteracy is not due to youthfulness.

"Our methods of criminal procedure are defective. Conspicuous is the signal failure of capital punishment. This is perhaps the most striking example of the law holding a threat so severe it is seldom carried out. The very elements that make it unenforceable are human ones that can't be overcome. That is why this form of punishment can never be any better."

IRON PUDDLERS' WAGES CUT 25 CENTS A TON

Youngstown, O., Oct. 28.—Wages of iron puddlers, working under the sliding scale of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers will be reduced from $12.13 a ton to $11.88 for the next two months, it was announced after the monthly examination of selling prices of bar iron today. The average price for the last two months was found to have been $2.10 a hundred pounds, five cents lower than for the previous two months.

Then he went into engineering and banking until 1904.

Other names and tax figures being dragged out of the collector's office furnish substantial proof that romance blooms in unsuspected places.

The income tax payments of Philip Stockton, for example.

Years ago Mr. Stockton was a humble engineer in the Merrimac cotton mills at Huntsville, Ala. His chances of becoming a captain of industry or a dominant figure in finance never loomed at that time.

TAX EXCEEDS OLD PAY.

Yet in 1923 Mr. Stockton's taxable income was of such size that he paid the government $5,546.33—considerably more than he made in a year's time as engineer in the southern textile plant. Mr. Stockton is president of the Old Colony Trust Company, is director in several other banks and is interested in many corporations.

Elmer P. Bliss, head of the Regal Shoe Company, is another whose income tax payments bristle with the romance that still lives in business.

Once Mr. Bliss was a travelling shoe salesman. He was so badly injured in a railroad accident in the west that doctors told him his days of business activity were over. He won a suit against the railroad company, paid off his doctors and lawyers and found himself with $3,000 capital. The former salesman, whose life was despaired of, was in such fine fettle in 1923 that his government income tax for the year amounted to $9,073.12.

Because of the expected 25 per cent. refund and her trustee's dislike to bother with a check for an amount so penuious, Miss Mary Weld of No. 2 Storey place, Jamaica Plain, paid her $.96 Federal income tax in installments.

Miss Weld is seventy-five years old and lives with a sister at the Jamaica Plain address. Her trustee is Attorney E. A. Buffam of No. 13 Tremont street.

WAS BOBBIN BOY.

Around the income tax of Walter H. Langshaw of New Bedford, $79,044.49 in amount, could be written a story of business romance rarely surpassed. For Mr. Langshaw arose from the lowly position of bobbin boy to a mill owner and a millionaire, and has been quoted as being at odds with other mill men on important subjects regarding the tariff and the trade. He is often called New Bedford's most enterprising citizen.

Mrs. Edward D. Brandegee, as every one had supposed, held the wealth of the Brandegee family. Just to prove it the newspapermen called for her tax bill yesterday and found out that she paid $18,756, as contrasted with the income tax of her husband, listed at $3,607.74.

Samuel Green, a Springfield engineer, had a large income, as shown by his tax of $14,750.03, reading Allan Forbes, the Boston banker, who reported owing a tax of $11,740.37.

THEOPHILUS KING HIGH.

Theophilus King of Quincy, who has been reputed as being a philanthropist to the extent of hundreds of thousands and whose son, Delevare King, made things interesting for prohibitionists and semi-prohibitionists alike by announcing a unique contest by which the world was given the word "scoffaw" for $200, paid $6,137.13.

Mr. King is president of several manufacturing companies as well as the Granite Trust Company. He is about 80 years of age. He is also interested in textiles. One of his philanthropies was to donate a trust fund of $16,000 to 30 churches of Quincy to break down inter-denominational lines. This was later increased to $350,000.

Eben S. Keith paid $3,085.91. Much of the world's goods are carried in the freight cars made in New England's largest freight car plant, of which Mr. Keith is president.

an executor. She first appointed John C. Gray, and upon his death named Henry W. Swift, reporter of decisions of the Supreme Court. His, too, died during the lifetime of Mrs. Dexter, and the present executor is Roland Gray.

SERVANTS REMEMBERED.

There is nothing to show the value of Mrs. Dexter's estate, but her works of art and other collections must have cost hundreds of thousands of dollar.

Mrs. Dexter directs that if Francis R. Reddy is in her employ at her death, he shall be paid $10,000; that Grace K. Barrett, Gilbert Wallis and Ellen Leonard shall be paid $500 each; that an annuity of $780 be purchased by the executors for Mary Howard and an annuity of $600 for Ellen Leonard.

Morris Carter, who formerly had charge of Mrs. Dexter's treasures and now is director of Mrs. Gardner's Fenway Palace, is given $25,000, William Castle, Jr., $50,000, and the Massachusetts General Hospital $10,000.

The residue of Mrs. Dexter's estate is disposed of by three clauses of her will:

BEQUEST TO HARVARD.

"As my son Samuel has died, and as my son Gordon, besides his own present property, will on my death come into possession of property from which a large part of my income is derived, I have determined to give the residue of my property to public purposes, and I wish in so doing to devote it to an institution to which my children have been indebted, and I can think of none better than Harvard College, at which both my sons graduated, one in the class of 1887 and the other in the class of 1890.

"I, therefore, have resolved, and I do hereby give the residue of my estate, real and personal, including all property over which I have the power of appointment, to the president and fellows of Harvard College, the income of one moiety to be applied for the purpose of research in bacteriology in the medical or other departments of the university, and the income of the other moiety thereof to be applied to the purchase of books for the library of the university or of its branches."

In a memorandum, which is a part of the will, Mrs. Dexter gives valuable works of art, bric-a-brac, books, etc., to the following persons:

TO SHARE BRIC-A-BRAC, ETC.

Susan C. Amory, Ethel Amory, the Marine Museum, James Hathway Kidder, Boston Medical Library, Archibald Cary Coolidge, Mrs. Roger Wolcott and her son Prescott, Mrs. Joseph Lindon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Burnham, Morris Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson, New York City; D. Berkeley Updike, Louisa A. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Maria Cater, Ida G. Beal, Mrs. Franklin Dexter.

la Kun when he was in prison. Bela Kun, you know, was my husband's enemy. He banished the count and myself and our three little children from Budapest after the Bolshevik revolution of March 21, 1919. That placed Kun in power.

"I have seen Bela Kun only once in my life."

The Countess is twenty-nine. She has passed through much suffering since her husband's 120,000-acre estates were confiscated and his $30,000,000 in property lost. Yet she looks younger than her years.

The Countess hesitated, gave a little shrug of her shoulders, and went on:

"I may as well tell you. I named my first children Adam and Eve as a sort of symbolic hope they would live to see a new race. You don't think me foolish, do you? Adam is seven, Eva is nine. My little Judith, born the day Bela Kun seized the reins of power in Hungary, is five."

S. Stanwood Menken, president of the National Security League, who favored Countess Karolyi's deportation as "a dangerous Red," has renewed his attack. He said, however, he would not take the charges to Washington.

MILL MAN, GONE NINE YEARS, NOW BELIEVED TO BE ELOPER

PROOF OF DEATH IS LACKING

Cambridge Woman Disappeared Same Day as Walter Talbot Vanished

Taunton, Oct. 28.—Nine years of silence and mystery have fluttered from the calendar since Walter H. Talbot, wealthy Boston and Norton mill man, vanished from his Norton home.

Now, after almost a decade, it is revealed that on December 4, 1915—the same day that Talbot disappeared, leaving notes and a power of attorney to his wife—a well-known Cambridge woman, as yet unnamed, left her husband.

This revelation is made in connection with an attempt just begun by the mill man's wife, Mrs. Jennie M. Talbot of Boston, before the full bench of the Supreme Court, sitting at Taunton, to secure papers of administration on the estate.

In probate court Judge Mayhew R. Hitch of Bristol County refused her petition on the ground that there is not sufficient evidence to show that Talbot is dead. The Supreme Court hearing is on appeal.

The case is one of the strangest in the annals of Bristol County. Since his vanishing, no word has come from Bristol.

A man of means, engaged in the wool scouring business, he departed his home, taking with him a small bag. He has never been seen again by family or friends.

Mrs. Talbot, a few days later, received an envelope containing an automobile check, showing he had placed his car in a Boston garage. His fur coat was found in the machine.

On his desk three letters, one to his wife, one to his sixteen-year-old son and the third to both, were found. Mrs. Talbot's letter said:

"I have left power of attorney so that you can sign my name to anything. You should get around $200 a year from Palmer stock, $100 a year from Boynton. The mill owes me around $10,000 cash, which you can have when there is any to get. Can get some any time. You will have to look after this."

Now, after nine years of mystery, it is revealed that the Cambridge wife left her husband on that same day in 1915.

MARILOUISE CHAMBERS, GIRL VICTIM, AND STEPMOTHER

Uncle Sam's Gobs To Seek Thrill in Soda Pops

Washington, Oct. 28.—Secretary Daniel's famous pre-prohibition "bone dry navy" order is to be modified by Secretary Wilbur—but only to an extent which will permit thirsty gobs to partake of soda pop aboard ship.

Bottling concerns have been exerting pressure for a revision of the Daniels order, and after receiving assurance from government experts that the health of the navy will not be jeopardized by the change, Mr. Wilbur has decided to lift th easoda water ban.

Marilouise Chambers Recorded Every Detail of Shame That Led Her to Kill Self; Father's Act Was the Next Chapter.

A remarkable diary written by Marilouise Chambers, whose suicide three weeks ago caused Frank R. Chambers, Jr., to end his life in California, was found in the room where the father brought his life to a close. The first part of the diary in which the girl expresses the hope of helping others to keep away from drugs, is presented herewith. Two other parts will follow.

San Mateo, Cal., Oct. 28.—On a table in the room in which Frank Ross Chambers, Jr., had been letting just before he ended his life because of heartbreak over the suicide two weeks before of his seventeen-year-old daughter, Marilouise, was found a remarkable diary kept by the young girl. It was close by Chambers favorite chair, as though he were accustomed to read from it constantly when alone.

It is a story of innocence and worldliness, of millions and poverty. It is an account of affection, love, hate and disillusionment. It contains a record of grief, discontent and wreck, such as no father could read without anguish.

Marilouise's father said his daughter learned to take narcotics in an exclusive girls' school before she was out of her 'teens. That was before Chambers and his first wife, Louise, or "Woozy," as her daughter called her, were divorced.

As the result of her alleged addiction to drugs, Marilouise Chambers was caught in an undertow of despair. Maddened by the spectres of despondency, the girl is believed by the authorities to have shot a bullet into her brain to reach out for and secure the peace that, for her, death alone could give.

Here is part of a letter she wrote to her father, whom she called "Frank," written from the Crowsnest, Bronxville, N. Y., the elder Chambers' home:

"Now it is decided. The family is going to send me abroad. I am so unhappy about you. You and Beau (Chambers' second wife.) I am nearly crazy."

"LIFE'S A FUNNY GAME."

Excerpts from this diary, which was begun January 1, 1924, and ended February 9, 1924, follows:

Jan'y 1, 1924—"Church in a. m. x x x This year is going to be a success. I am finding God."

January 2—"I saw the 'Covered Wagon' (a moving picture film) and it made me feel depressed and realize how much I will always regret this foolish step out West, which has almost ruined my life."

January 3—"Feel terribly about leaving Frank. I would give up everything and try again to help, but he says 'No.' I will try some other people by my experiences. Life is a funny game all must play. Quiet evening, cards and packing."

January 4—"Woozy (her mother) at dock. Farewell party. She needs help no matter what mistakes have been made. The only thing for me to do is to leave the U. S. for a year or so—but I am leaving everything. Woozy was on the deck by the ship. She was so pathetic. She was very sweet and I want to help her to be happy. The family (meaning Chambers) wouldn't even speak to her."

January 5—"Not a bit sick. In a year I hope this terrible business will be over. I am trying to forget, but it is hard—I have forgiven."

DRUG FIEND'S LIFE "HELL."

Then the girl prays for assistance in her fight against her drug craving.

January 6—"Wireless message. Very rough all day. I ask help NOT to follow the path on which I have come so far. It is nothing short of hell."

January 7—"Two sets of deck tennis. I feel as useless and small as one can when I think of my past and the pretense of the present. . . ."

Next is a revelation of how Marilouise at the tender age of fifteen lost all the illusions of childhood and "started on the path" that led to her self-destruction.

January 8—"Frank's birth. The mistakes—the regrets. What I lost in Portland and Tacoma. It is lost forever. I didn't understand and now it is too late to get it back."

January 9—"Letter from mummy given me by Mary G. (her companion on the voyage). I am letting myself think too much."

January 10—"Am beginning to take notice of things. The sea and sky seem very large and kind."

January 12—"Madeira. Lonely day at Funchal. People all look so tired and discouraged that it made me feel so depressed and kind of uncertain—nothing to hold on to."

January 14—"Gibraltar. . . . wire from Frank. Life is so hard I hate it. I wish I could go away from everything to have a little peace of mind."

January 15—"I have decided I am a fool. I can control my motions, yet I don't control my thoughts."

TELLS OF WILD LIFE.

Marilouise next describes the wild life "out West" previously referred to in the diary, showing affairs with boys when hardly fifteen.

January 16—"Algiers. Lovely day. Reminded me of the terrible life I led out West with Jack Lamb and Harry. It didn't pay and it's hard to pull back."

January 17—". . . . Too depressed to do anything."

January 18—"Bay of Naples. Must conquer the N. G. (No good) feeling. It is getting the best of me."

January 20—". . . . Down and out."

January 21—"Straits of Messina. . . . . the move I think things out and reason alone and keep away from people, the better off I am."

January 22—"Athens. Would give anything if I hadn't stopped work and come on this trip—want to go back to the U. S."

"I WISH I WERE DEAD."

January 23—"Athens . . . I wish I were dead. I am miserable. I hate all this. I want to settle and go back to work."

January 24—". . . . . I am terribly unhappy. . . ."

Then into the cradle of Christianity—to Nazareth where Christ was born, went Marilouise Chambers, feeling gay—from whiskey. The diary shows she is beginning to slip.

January 25—"Trip to Nazareth. Have had an unusually large drink of Scotch, therefore feel fine. . . ."

January 26—"Alexandria, Egypt—Never have felt quite so low and blue."

January 27—"Church on board S. S. Lotus. . . . . I want to go back to the U. S. Yet everything is in such mess I don't care."

(The second installment of this remarkable diary will be published tomorrow.)

ATTACKS COAST GUARDSMEN AS PIRATES

Counsel for Men Seized by the Tampa Threatens Trial Under British Law

A threat to prosecute United States coast guardsmen for privacy on the high seas in the Canadian Courts was made today by Attorney Mathew L. McGrath, council for alleged rum runners seized by the Revenue Cutter Tampa in the week-end round-up.

Attorney McGrath declared he proposes to act henceforth through James F. Gray, the British Consul General in Boston, and Attorney General O'Hearn at Ottawa.

He demanded the immediate return of 300 cases of seized champagne and other liquors, taken from the British schooner Bachman, and personal effects of the Bachman's crew, threatening action for piracy unless return is made.

LIQUOR ALL GONE.

As it is understood that 150 cases were heaved overboard and 150 more cases disposed of in other ways, it will be impossible for the Federal authorities to comply.

Federal authorities today admitted Ensign Connor of the Tampa sold a case of champagne over the side of the Bachman after he was put in charge of her. He did so, they declared, to obtain evidence against rum-runners for purchase of liquor.

Rum-runners are daily attempting to enlist in the coast guard service. Lieutenant Commander S. S. Venable, special investigator for Admiral Villard aboard the revenue cutter Tampa, said today.

WANT TO GET INSIDE

The objects of the rum interests he declared, is to get on the inside to gather information as to the activities of the Government forces, to demoralize and corrupt the coast guard organizations and to spread untrue reports publicly of corruption in the service.

A Federal grand jury here today heard witnesses against seven rum alleged rum-runners snared in the round-up engineered over the week end by the Federal authorities.

The men are Harry Ritchey, captain of the schooner Bachman, and Harold Young, supervargo, both of Lunenburg; Whitbee Bowman, mate of Gloucester; David R. Keating and Philip S. Keating of Gloucester, arrested on board the motorboat D477; Peter Kostan and Joseph Tarry of Salem, arrested aboard the motorboat C214.

SENATOR KEYES SPENT $2,098 ON HIS CAMPAIGN

Washington, Oct. 28.—Campaign expenditures of the following senatorial candidates were reported today to the secretary of the Senate:

Senator Keyes, Republican, New Hampshire, spent $2,098.50, and received $5,000. Thomas D. Schall, Republican, Minnesota, spent $9,500 and received the same amount. Guy D. Goff, Republican, West Virginia, spent $3,975.30, and received no contributions.

Senator Phipps, Republican, Colorado, spent $2,570.50, and received no contributions. Senator Warren, Republican, Wyoming, spent nothing and received no contributions. U. S. G. Cheney, Democrat, South Dakota, spent $3,237.06 and received no contributions.

NOTED TUNNEL BUILDER, BAY STATE MAN, DIES

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 28.—Clifford M. Holland of New York, chief engineer of the New York and New Jersey vehicular tunnel, whose death occurred here unexpectedly, was one of the most famous engineers in the United States. He was frequently referred to as the most noted tunnel builder in the world.

Although only in his forty-first year, Mr. Holland had driven no less than twenty-eight bores under the East River.

Mr. Holland was a native of Somerset, Mass., where he was born in 1883. He was a graduate o[illegible] and is survived by a widow and four daughters.

U. S. DESTROYER SAVES 3 FROM WRECKED PLANE

Honolulu, Oct. 28 (AP)—After drifting three miles off shore for several hours yesterday, Lieutenant H. C. Frazier and two passengers, flying in a first attempt to establish an interisland air mail service, were rescued as their plane was on the verge of sinking. A United States destroyer which effected the rescue sank the wrecked plane by gunfire.

Captain and Mate Injured in Tarpaulin Cove Mystery Explosion

Woods Hole, Oct. 28.—Capt. W. F. Nickerson and Mate Jarvis Robbins of the freight schooner, Fanny Hitters, were blown from their bunks to the deck today in a mystery explosion during a fire aboard the craft, anchored in Tarpaulin Cove.

Despite his severe burns and bad shock the captain rescued his mate from the flames and shoved off in the schooner's small boat.

Frank Davis of the Tarpaulin lighthouse, who heard the explosion, raced to the flaming craft and picked up the suffering men. After giving them first aid, Davis brought a doctor to the lighthouse from the shore. Both men will recover.

The schooner was bound from Falmouth to Newport, R. I., with cordwood. Captain Nickerson and Mate Robbins were sleeping below when the fire started from an undetermined cause.

The schooner was destroyed with its cargo.

HELD IN $1,000 ON CHARGE OF BREAKING

John Rozzo of No. 225 Western avenue, Cambridge, was held in $1,000 until Friday, when arraigned today in Brighton court, charged with breaking and entering the home of Joseph Lopresel, of No. Ashnow street, Allston. According to the police, Rozzo admitted the error, which resulted in a loss of $100 in property by Lopresel. Most of the property was recovered.

Frank Tinney Is Suspended By Lambs' Club

New York, Oct. 28.—Frank Tinney—villain of last year's Music Box — has been suspended from the Lambs' Club. In his departure for England, Frank evidently overlooked paying some of those troublesome dues with which all chimnes are afflicted. The amount of Frank's indebtedness was between $40 and $50.

In any case, the Lambs has seen fit to exclude the boy from its portals, for a time, at least.

BIG WAGE CUT FOR AMOSKEAG MILL WORKERS

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 28.—Amoskeag mill employs face a substantial reduction in wages, greater than the 10 per cent. cut which they accepted last month, it was learned today on excellent authority.

The representatives of the workers were called into secret session with Agent W. Parker Straw. He offered them a proposition which they may accept or reject, but acceptance means that wages will be pared down substantially.

The previous cut of 10 per cent. was never put into effect because a rise in the price of raw cotton affected the manufacturing costs to such an extent that the reduction in wages would have had little effect in lowering prices.

The mills face the situation of having to make a big wage cut in order to slice prices down to the level set by Southern competitors.

HAUGHTON DIES IN NEW YORK HOSPITAL

Coach Striken With Acute Indigestion While Directing Columbia Scrimmage

Percy Haughton, one of the well-known football coaches of the country, died in St. Luke's Hospital, New York city, one hour after he was stricken while directing his Columbia football squad in scrimmage. It was immediately rushed to the hospital, but it was impossible to save his life.

Haughton went to Columbia in April, 1923, taking charge of the Spring training of that season. His contract was said to have been for $15,000 a year.

Haughton left Harvard in 1916 to become president of the Boston National League baseball club. He resigned the presidency of the Braves in 1918 to enter the service as a major in the chemical corps, after the war he became associated with banking interests in this city. His Boston home was still maintained at the time of his death, as Haughton spent only the Spring and Fall with the Columbia team.

Haughton was United States racquets champion in 1906 and in 1913 was doubles champion at racquets with H. D. Scott.

He was born in Staten Island, New York City, July 11, 1876. He was married May 15, 1911, to Mrs. Gwendolen Whistler Howell of Lenox, Mass.

COOLIDGE IS HOLDING LEAD IN POLL

of placing Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont in the Coolidge column and, so far as the Presidential vote is concerned, forgetting them. There is no dispute about them.

The big questions in New England this year are the big questions of "off" years namely, who are to be our governors and senators.

In Massachusetts, judging by the talk one hears on the streets and in the trains, the principal issue is the Child Labor amendment. No man living can remember a year when false propaganda was spread so thick or found so many eager tasters.

On the 30th day of the poll in Massachusetts, the three candidates ran just about as usual, Mr. Coolidge's vote almost equalling the total vote of his two rivals.

Massachusetts and other New England figures will be found in the customary tables.

Fighting Finish Is Seen in Maryland

Baltimore, Oct. 28.—A slight advantage in favor of President Coolidge over John W. Davis in the doubtful State of Maryland is indicated in returns of the Baltimore American's Presidential poll. It will be a "fighting finish."

The Republican lead when holding to a slender lead for the last ten days, although Davis has made small gains. The figures now read: Coolidge, 11,589; Davis, 10,474, and La Follette, 6,538.

Two factors are seen as aids to Coolidge in carrying the State. One is the fact that La Follette is cutting more deeply into former Democratic votes than into former Republican votes. The other is that Coolidge himself is drawing more heavily from the Democrats than is Davis from the Republicans.

La Follette has 1,041 Democratic votes and only 1,647 Republicans on the basis of the way the votes were cast in the election of 1920.

RAILROAD ACTS FOR DEFEAT OF LA FOLLETTE

By JOHN T. LAMBERT.

Washington, Oct. 28 (Universal).—A campaign for the support of either President Coolidge or John W. Davis is being made by one of the biggest railroad systems in the country.

Evidence comes from the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway, which operates through the great western country where Senator La Follette is the strongest.

An official circular ordering them to organize Coolidge or Davis clubs was sent to "all agents, roundhouse foremen and section foremen," by H. E. Aldis, superintendent of the Dakota division of that system.

TOLD TO GET BUSY.

Allen says to the officers that the railroads would be hampered by the Third Party and "It is, therefore, desirable that we put forth our efforts to support either Mr. Coolidge or Mr. Davis, it has been suggested, and I would like to see it done just as far as possible, that clubs be formed, either Coolidge clubs or Davis clubs.

"The agent can either act as chairman or get the roundhouse foreman or section foreman to act as chairman and the agent act as secretary and treasurer; but get busy and organize a club at each station and get whatever members you can to join your club."

WAY TO CHECK UP.

By having the foremen act as president, secretary and treasurer the railroad officials could thus keep check on those employes who would not join or refused to contribute to the Coolidge or Davis clubs.

"I recently wrote to you in reference to organizing Coolidge and Davis clubs," he said "So far I have received replies from only a few of you. We must do something on this and get these clubs organized at once. I am going to ask that you notify me the condition politically at your station, what you have done or will do, if you do not care to organize a club and it is against your views, just say so, we will know whether to depend on you."

ALLEGE COERCION.

After giving his foremen the above very definite instruction, with the veiled threat against those who could not be "depended upon," Mr. Allen concluded with this final command:

"If other influence is being brought to bear on you by other employes, I would like to know who they are."

Men independent in politics who have seen Allen's letters, especially the second one, say that it not only coerces the employes to organize the clubs for Davis and Coolidge but instructs them to spy upon and become "tellitales" upon those railroad men who are interested in La Follette.

NEWS OF BIG AND LITTLE POLITICIANS

Senator David I. Walsh called upon Governor Gifford to state his position on the Fordney-McCumber tariff law with its increase in the high cost of living. The Senator spoke in Wakefield town hall and on the same platform Mayor Curley compared "Coolidgism" and "Fullerism" much to the disadvantage of the latter.

The Child Labor Amendment was denounced by former Attorney-General Herbert Parker as infringing "upon every natural function both of the Commonwealth and citizen."

He declares that if "Congress has heretofore attempted by statutory action, to take control of the labor of all persons of immature years wherever resident within the States, this attempt has been denounced by the Supreme Court, as a usurpation of legislative authority, a violation of the limitations of the Federal Constitution, and to have flagrantly exceeded any authority delegated or intended to be delegated by the people to the national government."

* * *

Former Mayor Peters has come out for the borough system of electing the city council. Says Andrew J.:

"My experience as mayor convinces me that any man would be handicapped seriously as head of the city in attempting to work against the terrific pressure which would be brought to bear by the twenty-six to thirty-six ward councillors under Plan 2. The demand for petty local improvement would be so great that there would never be enough money left to carry on big, constructive projects."

* * *

An investigation of the charges that members of the Boston Fire Department were coerced into contributing $37,000 to the Curley campaign fund was urged in an order submitted to the City Council by Councillor Daniel W. Lane.

The bill, which failed to pass, recommended that the Finance Commission be requested to conduct the probe in an attempt to ascertain whether or not "employees of the city have been intimidated into doing work of a political nature at the request of candidates for public office."

* * *

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 28.—Declaring he was seeking to "test the honesty" of Republican party leaders, Senator Carter Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, challenged President Coolidge in a campaign speech here to come out in opposition to the re-election of Senators Borah of Idaho, Norris of Nebraska, and other Republicans who favor changes in the status of the Supreme Court.

* * *

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 28 (A.P.)—Calvin Coolidge was recommended to the voters of up-State New York today by his running mate, Charles G. Dawes, as a man willing "to take the gaff when the crowd is against him, knowing that eventually the judgment of the mass of the people will be with him and vindicate him."

Dawes is on his way to Chicago, from where he will start for Missouri after a short rest.

Secretary Wilbur will speak at Providence, R. I., tomorrow, and at Manchester, N. H., November 1.

U. S. CHARGE D'AFFAIRES IS DEAD IN CHINA

Peking, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Edward Bell, the American Charge d'Affaires here, died today as the result of a stroke suffered.

Edward Bell, born in August, 1882, was one of the experts and secretaries attached to the American delegation at the Armament Limitation Conference in Washington in 1921 and also acted as American observer at the conversations between the Chinese and Japanese representatives in regard to the Shantung question. Mrs. Bell was Miss Etelka, daughter of Brigadier-General Conyers Surtees of Durham, England.

CHELSEA ALDERMEN WOULD BE INVESTIGATED

Chelsea Aldermen unanimously have passed a resolution calling upon District Attorney O'Brien and the Suffolk County Grand Jury to investigate recent acts of their body in connection with the consideration of the petition for a permit for a community garage in the rear of the new Harbor View apartment house being erected on Washington avenue, that city.

At the meeting of the Aldermen a week ago, Miss Ada Feinberg, opposing the petition, said that rumors were current that seven members of the board had been "reached" and would vote favorably on the petition.

PRESIDENT-ELECT OF MEXICO TO MEET COOLIDGE

Washington, Oct. 28. — Arrangements have been made at the White House, through the State Department, for a visit Friday afternoon by General Plutarco Elias Calles, President-Elect of Mexico with President Coolidge. Mr. Calles arrived in this country yesterday from Europe, en route to assume office in Mexico.

LIGGETT MUST TESTIFY ON SLUSH FUND

Summoned, With Crafton D. Cushing, to Appear Before Borah Committee

Washington, Oct. 28.—Louis K. Liggett, chairman of the Coolidge finance committee of Massachusetts, and Crafton D. Cushing, treasurer of the Boston Republican city committee, were today mailed summonses and are expected to appear before the Borah "slush fund" committee today or tomorrow.

Both men have been summoned at the instigation of Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Senator La Follette, and on their appearance will be questioned as to the amount of funds collected in Boston and the Bay State.

TO HOLD TWO HEARINGS.

The investigators are particularly interested in the amounts Walsh claims have been sent out of the State to be spent in doubtful districts.

Attorney Walsh declared that he was eager to have the G. O. P. counter-charges of an "enormous and unaccounted for" Third Party fund investigated. Two hearings will be held as a consequence of the Republican charges.

BUTLER TO TESTIFY.

Senators Borah and Shipstead were to leave today for Chicago, where they will open one hearing tomorrow. Senators Bayard and Caraway will remain to conduct the investigation here.

Samuel Untermeyer will accompany Borah and Shipstead to Chicago to cross-examine the witnesses among whom will be Chairman William M. Butler and Treasurer William V. Hodgis of the National Republican Committee.

REACTION HIT BY DAVIS IN STATEMENT

Pleads for Democracy in Industry in First of Series of Appeals to Voters

New York, Oct. 28.—Declaring there "can be no compromise with reaction" and reasserting his position on "several of the more important issues before the people," John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, issued today the first of a series of statements prepared by him for publication between now and November 4.

"The supreme issue in this campaign is: Shall the attitude of mind of the national administration be one of liberalism or one of reaction?

"Shall our national policies be framed with primary regard to the interests of a few or to promote the welfare of all?

"Shall the American government be made to embody the idea of every man for himself?

"Shall the American people through this government reassume the moral leadership of mankind?

"Such an issue as this transcends every question of today. We face a world wherein the supreme material problem is that of the equitable distribution of wealth. The Democratic party stands for the position that law and government policy should encourage the distribution of that wealth with all proper regard for the toil of the men who produce it; the Republican party for the doctrine that if we turn the major portion of that wealth to a competent few, they will themselves distribute it for the benefit of the many.

"The Democratic party stands for the utmost possible democracy in industry; the Republican for a glorified oligarchy.

"I stand for prosperity and for measures which will protect the property rights of every human being. But I believe that, while property rights must be respected, there are human rights whose worthiness transcends every material consideration."

INVESTIGATION AWAITS SUCCESSOR TO WALLACE

Washington, Oct. 28.—In view of the death of Secretary Wallace, the investigation of agriculture conditions proposed by President Coolidge now is expected to be held up until he names a new Secretary of Agriculture.

Among those mentioned for the office are Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, John Lee Coulter, president of North Dakota Agricultural College, and Samuel Adams, publisher and former president of the Agriculture Editors' Association.

Paris, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The French government today officially accorded La Jure recognition to the Soviet government of Russia. The recognition was granted in a telegram, the text of which was officially made public this afternoon.

Beacon Street Roadways to be One-Way

Each of the two roadways on Beacon street, Brookline, will become one-way streets on and after November 17, in accordance with a vote passed at a meeting of the Brookline Board of Aldermen. The ruling affects Beacon street from the Chestnut Hill Reservoir to the Boston line at St. Mary's street.

TELL COOLIDGE VETERANS ARE DISFRANCHISED

La Follette Managers Charge Plot Is Under Way in California

Washington, Oct. 28.—La Follette-Wheeler headquarters today made public a telegram to President Coolidge from John J. Hamilton and Harvey E. Garman, two of its California campaign officials, charging that Republican managers in that State were attempting to disfranchise soldiers in veterans' homes.

Asking the President to check the alleged tactics of his supporters the telegram stated that veterans had been shifted from precinct to precinct in such a way that they would be prevented from voting in places where they had registered after fulfilling residence requirements.

"Speakers for La Follette have had difficulty getting a chance to address soldiers," it was added, "but Coolidge campaigners have had free access to them at all times."

ANTI-SEMITIC CLASH FEARED IN RUMANIA

Bucharest, Rumania, Oct. 28.—Precautions were taken to prevent anti-Semitic or pro-Fascist outbreaks today on the occasion of the funeral of the Prefect of Police of Jassy, who was shot and killed last Saturday by Zelea Codreanu, a notorious anti-Semitic student agitator. Codreanu and fifteen other students at the University of Jassy are under arrest.

The press of the entire country is condemning the crime, which is attributed to the Prefect's vigorous suppression of anti-Semitic demonstrations of the students at Jassy.

SUGAR DELAY IS SCORED BY LA FOLLETTE

Failure to Cut Duty Costs the Consumer Million Weekly, Senator Declares

Baltimore, Oct. 28.—With the election one week away, Senator La Follette left here today to carry his fight for the Presidency back into New York State. He speaks tonight in Brooklyn, tomorrow night in Schenectady and then will invade New England for an address Thursday night at Boston before turning West for speeches in Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Failure of the President to put into effect the reduction in sugar duties which, he said, were recommended three months ago by the Tariff Commission, Mr. La Follette declared, is costing American consumers $1,000,000 a week.

Mr. La Follette declared that the "most encouraging feature of our campaign is that the fight for the Independent Progressive ticket has been financed by the great masses of the people.

"The campaign has proved a number of things," continued the Senator. "The first is that millions of dollars are not necessary to conduct an honest campaign in forty-eight States; second, that it is not necessary to solicit campaign contributions from wealthy corporations or individuals, who very naturally expect special favors if the campaign is successful, but that the people themselves will furnish the money to advance a cause in which they really believe."

Countess Work as Husband Tends Tots

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 28.—Impoverished by the war, Countess Mary Grainger Klepinska has gone to work, while her husband, a Polish count, acts nursemaid for their four children.

"The count is not used to working and got pains in his stomach, so we decided I would get a job and he would tend the children. He makes a very moderate nurse," the former social leader of the South said.

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe for Barbo Compound

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

VOTERS URGED TO SAVE YOUNG WORKERS

Defeat of Child Labor Bill Would Disgrace Bay State, Swift Declares

North Adams, Oct. 28.—"If Massachusetts voters defeat the Child Labor amendment which is on the ballot on November 4, it will be a disgrace to Massachusetts and a direct insult to the Congressmen and Senators sent to Washington by the Massachusetts electorate."

That is the opinion of Wiley H. Swift, director of legislation and investigation of the National Child Labor committee, who is now touring Massachusetts with the "Children's Caravan," speaking in all the principal mill cities in behalf of the amendment.

Wiley H. Swift

Mr. Swift is one of the biggest men in the child labor movement. He has done, perhaps, as much, or more, than any other single individual in America to secure the passage of an amendment to the Constitution which will enable Congress to step in and assist in the saving of the children of the nation by wise and sane legislation.

BAY STATE LEADS.

"Massachusetts is one of the Nation's leaders in the matter of the protection of its children," declared Mr. Swift. "Now I cannot see just why the voters wish to vote against a child labor amendment. But I find that there are hundreds of them who are opposed to the amendment, but who, strangely enough, believe in the State child labor law here.

"To my way of thinking this fight against the child labor amendment is a fight of the big interests who see the handwriting on the wall. They see that the time is fast arriving when they will no longer be able to dictate to the men in Congress as to what shall and shall not be. They already see a change in the makeup of Congress, and they see their power slipping from their hands.

FARMERS' IDEA WRONG.

"I find that the farmers have been told that their children will not be allowed to do the ordinary farm chores that they have been accustomed to do for centuries. This is ridiculous. Their children will not be molested in this respect. In Massachusetts today we have a law more stringent than the power that the proposed amendment would permit the national Congress to pass. In Massachusetts we prohibit persons under twenty-one from working in certain dangerous trades. The amendment sets the age limit at eighteen.

GLAD TO HEAR TRUTH.

The caravan today visited Pittsfield and surrounding towns.

Mrs. Harry Garfield, wife of the president of Williams College and Mrs. Robert D. Lee, wife of Professor Lee of the college, are among the most ardent workers for the amendment in Williamstown. At North Adams the workers from the mills and factories eagerly seized the literature handed out by the caravan members, and explained that they were glad to get the "real truth" of the situation.

Roxbury Hears Debate on Child Labor

The proposed child labor amendment was debated by a Harvard professor and a Wellesley attorney before the members of the Roxbury Social Center, meeting in the High School of Practical Arts, Roxbury.

Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard, favoring the amendment declared that according to the census of 1920, the only figures available, 10,000 children under 16 years of age were forced to work eleven hours a day in Massachusetts.

Professor Hart declared that if Massachusetts votes in favor of this amendment next Tuesday it will be the first Northern state to do so.

Attorney George A. Sweetser of Wellesley, representing Louis A. Coolidge of the United Shoe Machinery company, spoke against the amendment. He declared the States are capable of legislating for their children and that the figures quoted by his opponent were antiquated.

CALM PATIENTS AT STATE HOSPITAL FIRE

Worcester, Oct. 28.—A fire at the Worcester State Hospital here today was extinguished by members of the hospital staff, who also prevented the patients in one of the wards from becoming panic-stricken when smoke seeped into the ward. BROKEN HEART KILLS LOEB'S FATHER

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Albert H. Loeb, father of Richard Loeb, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary with Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., for the killing of Robert Franks, died at his home here, bent prematurely to his grave as a result of his son's act of murder.

Suffering from a weak heart for two years the grief occasioned by his son's disgrace killed him.

Starting as a Chicago school teacher Mr. Loeb amassed a fortune and became vice-president of Sears, Roebuck Co., which position he resigned when his illness became acute.

Warden Whitman said that with the Governor's permission Dickie might be permitted to attend the funeral under heavy guard.

Held in Auto Death

Joseph A. Sansone of South Margin street, West End, was held for the Grand Jury today on a charge of manslaughter. It is alleged that his automobile killed Mrs. Grace Terrio, fifty-nine years old, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, in Adams square.

SHOTS HALT 2, 1 ESCAPES IN SHOP LOOTING

Two alleged burglars were captured and a third, who is believed to be wounded, escaped when police found three burglars at work in the tailor shop of Samuel Bloom at No. 1323 Blue Hill avenue, Mattapan, early today.

Half a dozen shots were fired before the fleeing suspects surrendered.

The men arrested are Timothy Driscoll, twenty-seven, of No. 69 Langdon street, Roxbury and James O'Neill, aged twenty-two, of No. 179 Colorado street, Mattapan. Ah automobile found outside the shop, in which the thieves evidently intended carrying away their loot, bore registration tags issued to Abraham H. Weene, twenty-four years old, of No. 44 Pearl street, Somerville.

Patrolmen Emmett Mahoney and George Oliver were trying doors along Blue Hill avenue when they saw an electric flashlight being operated in the tailor shop. They ran to the rear of the store as three men emerged.

Driscoll dropped to the ground and rolled under a lumber pile when the officers opened fire. His two companions escaped in the darkness, but a short time later young O'Neill was arrested at his home.

The third fugitive disappeared in the darkness.

CHARGES LARCENY IN RAIL EMPLOYES' POOL

Charged with larceny of $1,500 because he refused to pay that amount to Michael Souza of Salem street, North End, on a lottery ticket held by Souza, Herbert Currier of Danvers was arrested today and held in $1,000 bonds in municipal court. The lottery, according to Souza, is a pool conducted by railroad employes. Souza claims his ticket, No. 68, won the $1,500 prize. He declares he presented it to Currier, whereupon the latter returned No. 68 to him, telling him that number won nothing.

"LOONEY GAS" HAS DOCTORS BAFFLED

New York, Oct. 28.—With three men dead, three others in a serious condition and an undetermined number of other employes at the same way, N. J., plant of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in the reconstruction hospital here, as the result of poisoning in the "looney gas" laboratory of the plant, physicians today still professed themselves baffled as to the cause of the men's mysterious affliction.

Dr. Yandell Henderson, professor of applied physiology at Yale University, said that the cause of the poisoning was ethenethyl lead, used in the commercial manufacture of a fluid designed to eliminate "knocking" in automobile engines.

The physicians in the hospital admit they know of no antidote for the poison. They said that the symptoms of the men are entirely new to them.

A third victim died today. He was William McSweeney, twenty-seven years old, of Elizabeth, N. J. Before his death he was so violent that he was placed in a straitjacket.

BOY SLAYER OF TEACHER IS GUARDED

Ellsworth, Me., Oct. 28.—Discovery of a daring plot to slay 15-year-old Roland McDonald, placed on trial here today for the murder of his 19-year-old school teacher, Louise Gerrish, has thrown the entire countryside in a furore of excitement.

Details of the plot, which included three armed men among its leaders have been uncovered by Detective James R. Wood of Boston, employed by the State authorities throughout the murder case.

As a result of the uncovering of the plot, the courthouse, where the trial opened today, and the jail where young McDonald is confined, have been literally surrounded by armed guards employed by Sheriff Wescott at the direction of County Attorney Whiting.

Neighbors of the slain school teacher from Winter Harbor have been revealed as the men who planned to take the law into their own hands and exact the life of the confessed slayer of the pretty girl.

The names of these men have not been revealed.

It was their plan to circulate among the crowds gathered here for the trial. Each was to be armed with a revolver of the same calibre and make. When the officers passed between the jail and the courthouse with their prisoner, the one who had the best opportunity was to shoot the slayer to death, while his confederates would aid him to escape in the excitement.

YOUNG NIMRODS CAPTURED BY PATROLMAN

Would-Be Hunters Caught With Guns and Knives From Downtown Store

Staggering under the weight of a varied assortment of firearms and other weapons, two Dorchester boys aged eight and ten years old dropped from a fire escape on the Avon street side of a downtown store early today, directly into the arms of a policeman.

Patrolman Patrick Mullin, who grabbed the boys, was probably as much surprised as they. He took them under the nearest street light and then relieved the youngsters of three revolvers of heavy calibre, a long hunting knife, a game and fish knife and three boxes of cartridges for the revolvers.

The boys had gained entrance to the sporting department of the store by climbing the fire-escape and forcing a window. After securing the weapons, they were surprised by the watchmen, but made their way down the fire-escape directly into the arms of the policeman.

The boys gave their names as Charles Bennett, nine, and Frank Wood, ten, both of No. 2950 Washington street, Dorchester. The boys declared they had no inclination to kill Indians, had no desire to go hunting in the Maine woods and had never thought of being bandits. They refused to tell what their plans were prior to sailing afoul of the law.

Their parents have been notified.

O'CONNELL'S NAME GIVEN BY MISTAKE IN REPORT

Because Special Officer John J. O'Connell of the Fields Corner Station, Dorchester, is the "goat" through an error in a report, the Boston American gladly denies for him today a story printed in these columns yesterday and in other Boston newspapers.

The wrong report stated that O'Connell was up on charges of failing to pull his duty calls and for failing to report for traffic duty at St. Ambrose's Church, Dorchester.

Officer O'Connell was not the man in question. It was Patrolman John Cummings of the same station. Officer O'Connell, who has been a special officer for nearly four years, has an excellent record and has been cited several times for meritorious work.

NEW HEAVENLY BODY ASTEROID, NOT COMET

Chicago, Oct. 28.—A new heavenly body, believed to be an asteroid, a small planet, has been photographed by the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago at Williams Bay, Wis., according to Professor E. B. Frost, director. It is invisible to the naked eye. The photographs have disclosed the body is not a comet, as thought by Dr. Baade, a German astronomer who first espied it. Professor Frost said. He estimated its diameter at less than fifty miles.

FILIPINOS ATTACK CHINESE MERCHANTS

Manila, Oct. 28.—Attacks by Filipinos against Chinese merchants have been reported from two provinces to the office of Governor-General Wood.

The provincial governor of Samar telegraphed that members of a labor union in Calbayog assaulted the Chinese agent of a Manila shipping firm.

Chinese stores in Solsic, in Zambales province, were raided and considerable damage was done.

HOLDUP MAN GETS $127 WHILE CROWD IS NEAR

An armed holdup man entered the store of Harry Shear, No. 339 Harrison avenue today, and robbed Shear of $127. Many persons passing the store were unaware of the holdup, so quickly and quietly was it executed. The robber nonchalantly stepped from the store and mingled with the passersby. He is about 5 feet 4 inches in height, about 130 pounds in weight, thirty years old and wears a white sweater, brown coat and trousers.

Young Man a Suicide

New York, Oct. 28.—John Broen Jr., twenty-nine, son of the assistant chief engineer of the Long Island Railroad, was found shot to death today in the Broen home in New Gardens, L. I. Near the body lay a revolver.

FISK QUINTET DELIGHT WITH FOLK SONGS

True Enthusiasm, Religious Fervor and Pathos of South Are Conveyed

There was not a large audience at Symphony Hall last night to hear the Fisk University Jubilee Singers, but if these Negro singers got the audience their work deserved, the hall would have been crowded.

They came here fresh from success from abroad, where they had gone for the third time to raise money for the Fisk University at Nashville.

This quintet of singers—four men and one woman—chose their program last night almost entirely from Negro folk songs and spirituals.

It was a delight to hear the songs sung as they should be sung. Using their artistry in unaccompanied singing, which one hears equalled few times in a lifetime, the performers made real the enthusiasm, religious fervor and pathos that Negro songs possess, and that mirrors so aptly the life of the American Negro of the South. That is the epitome of art—to render truth and beauty as one.

Mr. James A. Myers also recited some poems of the Negro poet, Paul Lawrence Dunbar, in the same spirit.

Turf Enthusiasts Migrating to Attend Belmont Park Classics

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE recent steeplechase down Hamilton way was the last important turf event of the season to take place hereabouts.

Several Bostonians, however, will be present when the United Hunts Racing Association opens its Autumn meeting next Saturday afternoon at Belmont Park.

All Long Island will keep "open house" for the occasion, with the historic Turf and Field Club providing its usual popular rendezvous for the host of fashionables attending the races.

Of the Boston horse-lovers going down to Long Island for Saturday's races are Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., and Reginald W. Bird, both of whom are much to the fore in equine events staged around here.

The program at Belmont Park calls for six races—four flat and two over the timbers. The most important event is the Temple Gwathmey Steeplechase Handicap for four-year-olds and upwards. The Garden City, Piping Rock and the Baldwin are the others, with a fifth race, known as the Jericho event, steeplechase for hunters for three and a half miles over a timber course.

SPEAKING of sporting events, there is considerable interest among members of the Myopia Hunt Club in a smaller, though more nearby, event, also set for next Saturday.

The Myopians, by the way, will ship their mounts by special car to North Hampton, N. H., for their annual meet there.

The Myopians, by the day, will continue their hunts very late into the season, probably for at least another month more—weather permitting, of course.

Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, the former "Dolly" Bliss of Boston, was on the committee for the ball. Most effective were the decorations at the clubhouse. The ballroom blazed with masses of Autumn foliage, and the stage at one end of it presented a charming woodland scene—the proud work of various gardeners of the park.

Last year, for the first time, tables were placed in the ballroom, giving it the effect of a cabaret, and this year the same idea was carried out.

I NOTE that Mrs. Amos Lawrence Hopkins of Commonwealth avenue is the second largest individual landowner in the Berkshire Hills.

Mrs. Hopkins owns 1,729 acres, mostly forest land, extending along the New York State border to the summit of Petersburg Mountain in Williamstown.

A FUTURE DEBUTANTE

Mrs. Frederick G. Crane of Dalton is the largest individual landowner in the Berkshires, her property consisting of 2,959 acres.

Miss Alisa Mellon was a bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Beatrice Beck and Somerville P. Tuck, solemnized on Saturday in St. Thomas' Episcopal Church at the capital. President and Mrs. Coolidge were among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sedgwick were present at the fiftieth annual dinner of the Lenox Club, held at Lenox the other evening.

Alanson S. Bigelow of Gloucester street has been spending a few days at the Vendome.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris had dinner with Sir Thomas Lipton the other evening at the Lido-Venice in New York.

STRIKERS MAKE PEACE MOVE AT WALTHAM

After waiting nearly a month for their employers to make a peace move, Waltham Watch Company strikers today took the initiative in an attempt to bring the strike to an end.

The strikers have instructed their officers to try to arrange the proposed conference between the strike committee and President Frederick C. Dumaine of the company.

Since President Dumaine some time ago declared he was at all times ready to meet them, the strikers are confident the conference will be arranged.

For several weeks both sides have been deadlocked—neither making an effort to reach an agreement. Hope of an early settlement is now entertained.

If this peace move fails, it is feared the strike will continue through the Winter. In preparation for such failure, the strikers have appealed to labor bodies throughout the country for financial aid.

The announcement of Howard N. Mayhew, secretary of the strikers' organization, that he had withdrawn from the mayoralty race, created quite a sensation.

Mayhew said he withdrew because he feared his candidacy would injure the cause of the strikers. He had entered the race with the strike as an issue, declaring at that time the present administration had failed to act in the strike.

DROPS SUIT AGAINST EMERY'S ASSAILANT

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 28.—Following a reconciliation which occurred in the office of the Kent County Jail, Mrs. Olivina Simpson, in Superior Court has withdrawn the bill of divorce she had filed two weeks ago against her husband, Chedell Simpson, held on a charge of attempted murder for the shooting of Colonel John Emery, former commander of the American Legion.

Mrs. Simpson, who at the time of the shooting was a stenographer in Colonel Emery's office, came to the jail and asked permission to see her husband. She met him in the jail office.

The case against Simpson will go forward, and it is understood that the wife will be with him when he is taken into court.

"THE BAT" IS REVIVED BY SOMERVILLE PLAYERS

"The Bat," combination of tragedy, comedy and mystery, with emphasis on mystery, thrilled and puzzled a large audience at the Somerville Theatre last evening. The authors, Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, have managed to contrive many situations that leave the audience breathless from laughter. Credit is due the Somerville Theatre Players for the artful fashion in which they presented the play. Mary Ann Dentler, in the role of "Lizzie," supplied a full measure of comic relief. Jane Stuart was admirable as the resourceful Miss Van Corder, who had no difficulty in outwitting the detective. Frank Thomas had quite the professional manner as Andrew, son, the sleuth.

ITALY CELEBRATES TWO YEARS OF FASCISTI RULE

Roma, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Italy today celebrated the completion of two years under the Fascist government. Public buildings throughout the kingdom, by order of Premier Mussolini, and thousands of private ones, voluntarily were beflagged in honor of the occasion. The chief features of the celebration were the ceremonies consequent upon taking the oath of allegiance to the King by some 250,000 black shirts, most of whom participated in the Fascist march on Rome two years ago.

CHARLOT REVUE IS FEAST OF NOVELTIES

Swiftly Moving Comedy Dominates, Set Off by Beauty and Refinement

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

ANDRE CHARLOT'S fashion in musical revue, holding the stage at the Majestic last evening, displayed more items of common interest in easy-to-take entertainment than playgoers usually gather so early in the season.

Even to those seasoned campaigners who stick close to eye and ear diversions to the exhaustion of the more serious product of the theatre Charlot's Revue will present new and interesting thoughts on how to extract an evening of rare fun from a small group of principals and a single file of dancing damsels.

It would be a dull and sordid mind that could not, or would not, respond to the rapid succession of sketches, song numbers, and engaging novelties that fairly poured across the Majestic's big stage last evening. It would take more than the reputed chill of a Bostonese first nighter to resist the sparkling fun of Beatrice Lillie, the glowing personality of Gertrude Lawrence or the quaint comedy of Herbert Mundin. This trio, with the support of Sam B. Hardy, composed Mr. Charlot's heavy artillery, and each of them toiled incessantly from the rise of the curtain. They indulged in a gorgeous flight of artistic overtime.

It is the Charlot idea to introduce principals early and keep them on the job. It is a novelty today—tomorrow it may be the rule of the stage. At any rate the scheme revealed pronounced advantages last evening.

Starting from nowhere in particular and arriving at the same destination, this energetic quartet moved at high speed in melody and jest, with touches of radiant color to keep the mixture at an agreeable blend. Infinite humor held Miss Lillie through the performance and by it her audience was lifted into gay spirits. She exerted a sad influence upon queen's dignity.

A blithesome lass, graceful and pretty, was Gertrude Lawrence—and a dancer of rare talent. A more winning personality never frisked to good tunes at the Majestic—or at any other playhouse in town. Mr. Mundin was plainly humorous and Mr. Hardy breezed through a dozen scenes in a style more familiar to those who follow American revues—

If we are to have new designs in musical revue, as appears probable from the quality of Charlot's Revue, why not let Mr. Charlot himself lay out the plans. It would be a happy arrangement.

PINERO COMEDY SCORES HIT AT COPLEY

Clive's Company Shows Ability to Make Old Master Live Again

Sir Arthur Pinero's "The Thunderbolt," a comedy of family life, holds the stage at the Copley Theatre this week. Mr. Clive's company, with the director in the pivotal part, scored a notable success in the first presentation last night.

"The Thunderbolt" presents a populous English family suddenly thrown into high expectations by the death of its most wealthy member, who had been blacklisted by the rest for many years, but "forgiven" as the end drew near.

Like a flock of vultures, they gather after the funeral for the reading of the will, from which all expect to benefit. Their plans for "putting on airs" furnish many moments of amusing commentary on human nature.

When it is discovered that the wife of one of the brothers to share in the estate has destroyed the will, pandemonium reigns. The solution of the difficulty is handled with true Pinero skill.

Mr. Clive increased his hold on Copley audiences with his delineation of Thaddeus Mortimer, ably supported by Miss Violet Paget as Phyllis, his wife.

Whatever modern audiences may think of Pinero as a representative of a passing generation of writers, the Copley company soon dispels that feeling in its handling of Pinero plays. They may be theatre, but they hold the attention of audiences from curtain to curtain unfailingly.

ALMA NIELSON HEADS FINE CARD AT KEITH'S

Alma Neilson's song and dance act is easily the most popular at Keith's Theatre this week. She is assisted by Dan B. Ely and Dave Rice and the Privately Five. Her costumes are unique and startling.

Blossom Seeley, the girl who "Glorifies Syncopation," is good, assisted ably by Bennie Fields, Bert Fiske and Wilmer Gault.

Harry Green appears in an act billed as "The Cherry Tree." He plays a Jewish comedian. There are many laughs.

Other acts are: the Luster Brothers, with an unexcelled contortion act; Elmer Cleve, in "Black and White"; Montagne Love, billed as "The Mansfield of the Screen"; James Burke and Eleanor Durkin, in "If I Could Only Think"; Moss and Frye, originators of "How High is Up"; and the Cail Sisters, with Florence Page, in "A Cycle of Life."

COMING EVENTS

"Across The Street" will engage the attention of the Somerville Players next week.

BAY STATER IN OLD TRIUMPH AT WILBUR

Julia Sanderson Puts Some "Moonlight" Into World of Theatre

No getting away from it—the stage owes Massachusetts a bit of thanks for raising gliding Julia Sanderson and then waiving on her for the good of the public.

Julie has put more than a little sunlight into the theatre-going world, but not satisfied with that she came back to Boston last night to spread around a full order of moonlight, bringing Frank Crumit and a complement of beauty, fun and music to the Wilbur Theatre with her.

ENVIRONMENT DOES IT.

"Moonlight," stripped down to the bare chassis, is nothing so original that it would be snapped up as a bargain. But what L. Lawrence Weber and William B. Friedlander have done to it in trimmings makes "Moonlight" a delectable thing.

Briefly the story is of a bet made that any man and woman will fall in love with each other and become engaged, if placed in the right environment—moonlight, music, eyes, lips and all that.

Frank Crumit, whose guitar and other entertainment would be a delight in any home, works with Miss Sanderson to perfection. You'll almost forget you've been going to see and hear Julie for—well, the years don't matter. She "looks," oh, about twenty-five.

BLESSED WITH BEAUTY.

With them they have Miss Sascha Beaumont and Helen O'Shea—how beauty does bless some girls. And how both can dance!

Frankie Wood, one of the theatre's newer funny men, at least in Boston, carries the laughs in "Moonlight." He, too, is a good chap to have around the house.

Other principals are Louis Simon, Glen Dale, Ann Toddings and Ward Fox and an ensemble of attractive girls, fetchingly gowned and dancers all, form the background.

As to the music, "Forever," "Say It Again," "Old Man in the Moon," and "Don't Put Me Out of Your Heart," are the prizes.

ST. JAMES PUTS ON NEW YORK SUCCESS

The Boston Stock Company at the St. James is playing this week a martial comedy, now running in "New Toys," brilliantly acted by Earnest Truex in New York last season and shown for the first time in Boston last night.

It portrays a young couple in the second year of their married life. Just when the husband has settled down to a steady humdrum.

NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Nora at 17 fell in love with Dane Herrick. Connie gives a lively picnic. Dane's auto runs out of gas, leaving him and Nora stranded in the woods all night. They tell their love. Andrew's wife suddenly recovers her health and he decides to ask Margaret to flee with him.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY

By ELENORE MEHERIN

ANDREW thought suddenly of a thing Nora Lee said so often when she was nine or ten: "Oh, I wish and wish you were my father! Then I wouldn't have to go always without one. Isn't it sad?"

Memories tore with regretful hands at his thoughts.

Then he stood in the walk. Vines grew all over the fence; the geraniums were pink and shiny above the pergola. That night six years ago when he brought Margaret here; when he carried her, his heart breaking with its love, into this house. . . .

At least she had been happy. She had said so nobly: "Dear Andrew, I am glad to give." That wondrous night the moon rode down a path of crimson fire, she drew his head to hers and yielded him her lips.

He went now softly. Margaret was in the garden. She had been plucking flowers, came toward him, her arms filled with golden dahlias. They were yellow as the strange lights in her hair; rich as the amber pallor of her skin.

"Three Long Weeks"

Facing him so, she seemed eternally young in a golden, misty bloom. His eyes filled at her smile.

"Ah—you would be glad, dear Andrew, to know how I have trembled lest you would not come again. I am as foolish as my Nora Lee, turning red and white for love!"

He looked at her with that terrible yearning tenderness: "I saw our Nora Lee walking with the lad. Let them have their happiness, Margaret. Do you know she is growing beautiful?"

Margaret could weep when anyone spoke with warmth of Nora Lee. Her heart would potas as though it were too full to beat.

She said lightly: 'Oh, no! But rather pretty. Andrew—it is three weeks since you were here."

He laughed: "Three very long weeks, Margaret."

She was searching his eyes; noting that the thick hair seemed so much whiter; the strong, fine brow lined.

When they went into the house she did as he so wished she would. She clasped his face in her hands and stooping down kissed it gently:

"You are not happy, Andrew, dear."

"I am now. Margaret, will you come away with me?"

She turned white. The whiteness traveled inward even from her fingertips. "Has it come to this, Andrew?"

"Yes—it has come to this."

Nora Lee's Future

She turned from him with a desperate movement and sank her hands against the flowers.

After a moment he went to her. He put his arm about her, taking her hands in his: "Don't fear to hurt me, Margaret. Do only what you can. I know what holds you back. You are thinking of Nora Lee. I, too, have thought of her—"

"Oh, yes, Andrew—her life is all before her—"

"Well—it would not hurt her more than this, would it? We can go anywhere—South America—Europe. It need not be known where—"

"And if I don't go, Andrew?"

He said nothing.

"Does it mean, Andrew, the end, then?"

"I'm afraid it does, Margaret."

"I can not bear it! Andrew—I can not."

This was so much more than he expected, a cry sprang to his lips. He pressed his face down against her hands, covering them with kisses.

Thoughts of Europe

She went on blindly: "I would not think it right to send you out of our lives, Andrew—you have done too much. Let you go alone? Why? Who would call it right? Andrew, give me time to think."

He laughed softly. "Margaret, I could die gladly if only for this one word you have said." He put his hands on her shoulders and drew her with an eager gentleness. Fear and worry dropped from him like a discarded gown. He buried his face against the soft, sweet fullness of her throat.

When Nora Lee came in he said gaily: "Where is the merry brown lover?"

"The merry brown lover must pile up the shiny shekels. On Saturday nights he works. But way all the jubilation, you silver-topped, lovely old Andrew?"

Suddenly Andrew said, "Wouldn't you like to go to Europe, fair maid?"

"Tomorrow."

Nora Lee laughed. "Does he mean it, mother?"

"It might be that he does."

Her eyes danced. "But not forever? Could we stop off in Boston, perhaps?"

"We could do that."

She said wistfully: "Dane may go East to study. His old uncle wants to send him to the Boston Tech. Well, I shouldn't mind a sojourn in Europe for the nonce."

"Then 'tis settled! Up at 8, damsel, and fare forth for the tickets."

A Triangular Clash

Andrew dashed toward his wife, the move so unexpected she crouched. Crouching, she leveled the pistol, terrible little animal sounds coming from her lips.

Suddenly she began to sob, her hand flinging out in a wild gesture of accusation toward Margaret—"You she devil!"

Andrew clapped his hand over her mouth. His voice struck with ashen deadness: "Get up, Lily, you're coming home. Don't struggle. There's no use. Put your hands down. No, I won't release them, I'm going to take you home, now, Come quietly."

A long, shuddering moan. "Home! Home!" the beating of her fists on his chest. She let herself sink in a dead weight against him.

She went over and quietly brought her hat, lifting the trailing purple cape from under his feet. Doing this she smiled at him—a light of holy peace, like candles glowing at shrine.

He lowered his head before it, bearing his heavy, sobbing burden to the car. He propped her gently on the cushion.

Ride Back

On the long ride back to Fairdale Lily Stewart huddled in the corner, her choking gasps subsiding in muttered plaints like a dirge. "I'm the wife—the one to blame—the wife! I warned you! I told you. Oh, I asked you to be kind—to remember.

Dane clasped her in his arms.

Why did I want you to take me with you? To give you a chance to save your soul. I knew—that's why I gave you the chance. Take me with you. Save your honor! Would you? You were busy!" A prolonged shivering cry. "You'll go back! You'll try again! Don't, Andrew, don't!"

The shrill fury mingled with the tumult in Andrew's mind and this mingled with the infinite booming of the sea; the roaring of the wind as they sped down the naked road. Furious, puny whimpers they were in the vast, pitiless, unheeding song of the universe.

The moon rode blue and high; its image floated in cold serenity on the gleaming bosom of the waters. Andrew looked toward them. They seemed at peace, yet desolate, like one who bares his breast enduring while the winds of mortality strike and hurt him.

To Andrew it seemed that he was riding out of life; that all had now become unreal and dark. Through all the future he would go groping, feeling neither warmth nor light.

Lily had become silent. She refused to move when he opened the door at Fairdale and waited for her to step out. She made a clumsy lunge forward, then crumpled in obstinate immobility in the corner.

He said quietly: "We are home, Lily. It is late and turning very cold. Get out, will you please?"

Sobs answered him.

"Are you unable to move Lily?"

She had her face hidden in the cushions. He finally lifted her to the ground. She slumped in his arms, dropping her head against his neck, her wet eyes touching his chin.

He was exhausted when he reached her room and laid her on the bed. She remained inert, regarding him with red glaring eyes.

"Do you want anything, Lily?"

Sense of Doom

She beat her two hands together, her body shaken with hysterical sobs. When he drew the blankets about her, she clung to his arm, letting her face sink down against him. He was forced to sit on the edge of the bed and comfort her.

He sat there feeling her fingers driving into his flesh, till they seemed to squeeze at the blood in his veins. A sense of appalling doom fell upon him.

She had known of Margaret, must have shadowed him. In all those recent scenes she had been planning this. She would have shot Margaret.

He loosened her fingers with an involuntary shiver of repugnance. She mistook it for cold and tried to wrap the blanket about him.

"I'm tired, Lily—let me go—good-night."

She said in a frightened whisper: "Andrew—don't leave the house. Something frightful will happen."

He scarcely heard, but went to his room and laid the pistol in his grip. Yesterday he might have escaped; today he was a prisoner.

His mind reconstructed in a score of ways the scene in Margaret's dining room. Margaret white and beautiful as a thing of marble; Nora Lee flinging her arms about her mother's neck.

Then he saw Margaret, prostrate on the floor, blood streaming from that lovely face, the spirit going—this might have happened.

Fear piled on him, heavy and cold.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

Ann Lisle.

"HOW dared you to drag the Harrison name into this mix-up!" he cried with a sudden fury which actually relieved me. With his rage I knew how to deal. But I had no weapon to use against his cold reproach.

"It isn't a—there's nothing to be ashamed of," I protested. "Bennie Buchanan half killed Park. And Park here hovering between life and death at the time when his fate—passed on. I—you wouldn't want me to do anything but what I have done. You would not expect me if I didn't stand by our friends. You haven't forgotten how much we owe Mabel for saving your business—"

That's it!" Jim broke in furiously. "It's just like you to twist things so you can manage to reproach me."

"You've got it all wrong." I protested.

"Have I?" snarled Jim.

"Yes, yes. You can't know any of the facts—"

"Can't I? Why not?"

"Why—how much could Jeanie put in a telegram?" I fumbled.

"Enough to bring me back as fast as trains would carry me. Enough to make me travel all the night—"

"Jeanie was cruel and unfair," I gasped.

"That's all right—turn on her! You have a wonderful gift for twisting things to suit yourself."

"But—don't you see"—I pleaded. "You haven't heard one thing from me; you don't know anything at first hand, and yet you come in here in a fighting rage."

"Have I raised my voice?" asked Jim with studied politeness. "Am I doing anything to turn this interview into a scene? Aren't you furnishing all the melodrama?"

"Can't we begin at the beginning and get things straight?" I asked.

"Certainly. Begin wherever you like. If you have any explanation to offer for this situation in which you've involved me and my family I'll be greatly relieved to hear it."

Jim's tone was elaborately patient. He drew up a chair and sat down in a pose of equally exaggerated attention. I felt as if I were facing a high court without knowing the charges against me. Yet I had to defend myself and Mabel and Park as well. Quickly and breathlessly I began:

"Bennie went off to the Canaries and left Mabel. At least he said he was going. I invited her here for the week-end. Irma Warren is here, too. Her aunt asked me to take care of her while he's away"——

"So we're running a hotel!" commented Jim, too pleasantly.

"Do you want me to tell Loren Haldane when he comes to me in needle?"

"The world couldn't go on revolving if you didn't stay on the job," murmured Jim. "And what was Loren Haldane's need? I suppose it's all part of your melodrama."

HELPS TO THE HOSTESS.

I DON'T think there is any keener test for efficient housewifery than unexpected company. It always seems to happen that the very day you have planned to economize a bit and use up the left-overs is always the day when husband is surprised to bring home an important business friend or some of the critical in-laws drop in. There are times when the emergency shelf proves a friend indeed.

Canned soups in endless variety will provide an additional course for either the scanty luncheon or dinner. Try Pea Soup for a change, topped with whipped cream and served in bouillon cups. Celery soup made with hot milk or cream is delicious, too. Of course canned tomato soup furnishes an excellent emergency sauce for fish, croquettes, spaghetti, breaded chops, etc.

SPANISH MEAT BALLS.

½ cup fine bread crumbs (packed down).
1 rounded teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning.
½ cup finely chopped green pepper.
1 teaspoon chopped parsley.
1 large union, finely chopped.
1 egg, well beaten.
1 can tomato soup.

Mix meat, seasonings, crumbs and egg. Shape into flat balls. Roll in flour, and brown thoroughly in pan with a little pork or other fat. Turn into shallow baking pan, and pour over the tomato soup, adding a little water if necessary, a few drops Worcestershire sauce, grated onion and chopped celery. Finish cooking slowly for one hour in oven. Serve on hot platter with sprig of parsley on each ball. (Make 12 large balls).

Next in convenience to soups are the canned meats. I think, especially the boned chicken and turkey, the boneless ham, the whole-rolled ox tongue and the potted and deviled meats.

CORRECT MANNERS

DEAR MRS. BRECKMAN:

Will you please tell me what is proper to wear at a morning wedding for bride and groom?

(2) Is it permissible for the bride to wear a veil at a low mass?

D. C. M.

THE bride wears either the formal, traditional white satin dress and tulle or lace veil, the informal costume of an afternoon dress and hat, or tailored suit or dress. It all depends upon the kind of wedding and the degree of formality of the wedding. The formal clothes for the groom are a morning wedding are the cutaway coat and dark striped trousers; the only substitute for these formal clothes is the dark blue or black business suit.

(2) Yes.

DEAR MRS. BRECKMAN:

What is the order of march as the bridal procession approaches the altar? When leaving?

(1) At what point in the wedding march do the groom and best man emerge from the vestry?

(2) Where do the bride and groom receive best wishes and congratulations, at the altar or in the rear of the church?

(4) When coming from the vestry who comes first, the groom or the best man or do they walk side by side with the best man guiding the groom with a slight touch at the elbow? How fast should they walk?

R. A. M.

THIS is the best order for the processional:

Ushers, walking together, two by two.

Bridesmaids, walking together, two by two.

The recessional is:

Maid of honor, walking alone.

Ushers, walking together, two by two.

(2) When they receive word that the bridal party is ready to start.

(3) Neither is customary. The party leaves the church at once, and the bride and groom receive congratulations at the home of the bride.

(4) The clergyman comes first, then the groom, then the best man. The best man does not touch the arm of the groom. We still hope that the groom won't need this solicitous care!

WIRING OF THE 'SUPER' MADE EASY

Simple Matter to Hook Up a Set With Picture Diagram

By ROYAL STERLING
The Radio Editor

With the first appearance of our "Super" there was a sketch showing all the parts used and the connections to same. This made it possible for the fan not initiated into the secrets of schematic diagrams with all their loops and zig zag lines to hook up a complete receiver without any trouble.

Today you see a picture diagram of our Improved "Super." Radio enthusiasts come in with schematic hookups and say "what do these lines mean? Can't we have a picture of the set?"

For the thousands who are waiting for a simplified method of presenting an otherwise complicated arrangement to some we present the accompanying sketch.

Folders are being printed containing all the data for the construction of the four tube Improved "Super." When writing for same include postage. Questions should be written on a separate piece of paper.

INSTRUMENTS READILY UNDERSTOOD WHEN SKETCHED

1600 MILES AT 7.30 P. M. ON SUPER

The following is from one of our readers who has built the new Super. The letter is self explanatory.

"Dear Sir:

"Following the description of the new Super in the Americam I built up the set, or rather remodelled my old Super.

"It has got the most selectivity of any set I ever owned or saw, and has all the volume that is to be desired.

"Following is a list of stations heard on this set on the evening of October 23, they were all heard before 11 o'clock, in fact, Kansas City, Mo., was picked up at 7.30 p. m. and Davenport, Iowa, at 8.20 p.m.

WFBH, New York; WGN, Chicago; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WBZ, Springfield; WDAR, Philadelphia; WDAF, Kansas City; CNRO, Ottawa; WJZ, New York; WCAE, Pittsburgh, WRC, Washington; WOC, Davenport; WEAF, New York; KYW, Chicago; WAAM, Newark; WBBG, Mattapoisett; WFBG, Altoona; WEAN, Providence; WBBR, Staten Island, N. Dartmouth; WGY, Schenectady; WOR, Newark; WHAS, Louisville; WTAM, Cleveland.

PWX, Havana, Cuba; WLW, Cincinnati; WNYC, New York. You will note that the stations are on the lower end of the dial readings. What would you recommend doing to balance the set? Removing a few turns from the coils or what? I get KSD, St. Louis, on 62 and 69.

Your very truly,
Lincoln, Me.

Editor's Note:—Make no changes. You are covering both the low and high waves. Connect a small capacity fixed condenser in series with the antenna if you desire still lower wave lengths.

SUFFERED PAIN FOR YEARS

Mrs. Jahr Finally Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Howard Lake, Minn. — "I write to let you know that I have taken several bottles of your medicine in the last three months, and found it to be very good. I had pains and other troubles women have and was not able to do my work. Seeing your 'Ad.' in the paper, I thought of giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I got good results from it and feel able to do my housework now. I used to have lots of pains, but after taking the medicine I am relieved from pains that I had suffered from for years. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends, and hope this letter will be satisfactory for you to publish."—Mrs. JENNIE JAHR, R. R. No. 2, Box 81, Howard Lake, Minn.

HUNDREDS IN BOSTON SUFFER

Competition of Trucks and Flivvers Compel Roads to Curtail

By GRACE DESCHAMPS.

Two great modern industries have met in a head-on collision.

They are the automobile and the railway locomotive. To date, through the confusion of unchecked business, the automobile is still going, but the steam engine is sorely struck.

So serious is the situation, which local railroad officials described to day as "a crisis in the railway industry," that conferences are being arranged between railway heads and officials of the various brotherhoods with the hope of arriving at some joint action which may alleviate the condition of jobless men.

HUNDREDS OUT OF WORK.

In Boston, alone, hundreds of skilled workers—some of them having served their respective concerns for half a century—are walking disconsolately each day out the paymaster's office to find themselves jobless, or their "time" cut down to poverty wages.

Before the present curtailment is over, local brotherhood heads prophesied unhappily today, thousands of skilled workers throughout the country will find themselves facing a winter without jobs, and possessed of skilled trades which belong peculiarly to the railway industry.

FACE READJUSTMENT.

Conductors, brakemen, firemen, engineers, freight handlers, clerks and the half a score of labor divisions which make up the personnel of the New Haven road, the Boston & Maine, Boston & Albany, and other New England lines, will have to begin all over, in a new trade, if the situation is not found to be temporary.

The big truck is hauling all day and all night the heavy loads that used to go into the freight car.

The family flivver is carrying, along with its owner, some four or five neighbors who had formerly bought strip tickets and commuted back and forth to town on the five-fifteen.

The possibility of a lobby for heavy taxes upon motor transportation concerns looms up as one of the expedients already considered by both railroads and brotherhoods.

Still another, as expressed by railroad officials, is the removal of short steam lines and the subsidization of motor bus lines to compete with the business now being raked in by small operators of suburban buses.

NEW HAVEN HIT.

Each day witnesses a swelling list of jobless men at the local union offices of the various railroad brotherhoods.

"Motor trucking concerns and business houses doing their own haul transportation by motor trucks are unquestionably becoming one of the biggest problems that men who earn their living on the railroads have come to consider," declared President Walker.

"Where formerly twenty-five or more cars of express freight went each day to Plymouth and Brockton and similar nearby points in the State, there isn't a single load a day.

"At far away as New York, Syracuse, Buffalo and Cleveland, commercial houses and trucking concerns are making their motor trips.

"I am sure that in our brotherhood, alone, in Greater Boston, the number of unemployed men is creeping into the hundreds.

"It is a serious situation. These men have nearly all spent three or four years apprenticed to their trades. Today they are unfitted for other occupations. Some of them are old and poor and some of them are young and poor. Nearly all have families and many are trying to pay for homes. To be out on the street without a job is something to think about."

Superintendent Frank S. Hobbs, of the Midland Division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, declared today that some expedient would have to be attempted if the number of unemployed men were not made larger.

"Long haul passenger trips are not a problem," declares Superintendent Hobbs, "but the short haul decidedly is.

GEN. TOBIN AND 'MUTINEERS' TO QUIT DAIL

Dublin, Oct. 28.—The police, in the course of a roundup early this morning, arrested seven men who were remanded in police court charged with the participation in the attack on a party of British army men at Queenstown in March when Private Aspinall was killed and a number of other soldiers wounded.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL.

Dublin, Oct. 28 (I.N.S.)—At the Dail Eireann meeting today it was expected followers of General Tobin and his "mutineers" would resign and leave the assembly.

Tobin was one of the ringleaders in the army revolt against the Cosgrave government, and when it was exposed they claimed to have been actuated by patriotism because of weak members in the Cabinet.

Supporters of Tobin in the Dail declare President Cosgrave agreed with John Devoy and Judge Cohalan of New York that all "mutineers" would be restored to their old positions. Cosgrave now has balked.

It was reported also that Governor-General Timothy Healy might retire.

The "mutiny" and the Ulster-Free State boundary dispute are the leading issues before the present session of the Dail.

London, Oct. 28.—Military police made a series of raids in Dublin today. Ten arrests were made, according to a Central News dispatch from that city. The purpose of the raids was not disclosed.

Free State Gives Up Bodies of 77 Rebels

Dublin, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The remains of 77 men executed by the military authorities of the Irish Free State in 1922 and 1923 were handed over to relatives today for burial in consecrated ground. The public funerals will take place tomorrow and Thursday.

The first five handed over by the government were those of the late Lieutenant Commander Erskine Childers, whose remains were given to former Deputy Robert C. Barton in whose home Childers was captured.

GOVERNOR "AL" SMITH CALLS MACHOLD "LIAR"

New York, Oct. 28.—Declaring the time has come in the present gubernatorial campaign to get down to "cold facts," Governor Alfred E. Smith today passed the direct lie to Speaker H. Edmund Machold in the dispute over education. "The statements by Speaker Machold about education force me to say something I hate to say, but I find no better way of expressing it," the Governor said. "Machold is just an ordinary every day liar."

"I DO NOT INTEND TO RESIGN!" SAYS HARRIS

United States District Attorney Roberts O. Harris today denied reports from Washington that he had been called upon to resign.

"I have not resigned, do not intend to resign, and, as far as I know, I have not been asked to resign," he said.

Harris last July was summoned to Washington. It was reported that he had been "called on the carpet" for failure on the prosecution of liquor cases.

G. A. R. OFFICIAL DEFENDS COOLIDGE'S $250 FEE

Bridgeport, Ct., Oct. 28.—"Dirty politics," is the statement of the Rev. J. W. Davis, permanent chairman of the United Patriotic Societies and chaplain of the G. A. R. in Connecticut, today, in discussing charges that Calvin Coolidge exacted a "fee of $250" for delivering a patriotic address in Bridgeport when he was Vice-President.

"We expect to pay for speakers; it is the usual practice. We wanted men of character; we had them and we paid them," said Mr. Davis.

Drops of Water 10,000,000 Years Old Found

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Drops of water more than 10,000,000 years old, preserved in quartz since an age before life began to appear on earth, will be exhibited in the Field Museum here.

The water was obtained in South America by O. C. Farrington, head of the museum's department of geology, who found it imprisoned in crystal quartz taken from rock formations at Bon Jesus Dos Meiras, Bald Brazil.

BAY STATE GIRL TEACHER HURT; PUPIL KILLED

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 28.—Hallowe'en merriment came to a tragic end when Miss Elsie Gorham of South Hanson, Mass., and four of her pupils, motoring from a party in the country, crashed through the railing of a bridge and plunged to the bed of a brook.

Miss Gorham was seriously injured about the head and face. The other three passengers received minor injuries.

Singing and laughing, the high school party left a merry group of young people after the Hallowe'en party which was held about five miles outside of this city.

Kenneth Morrison, one of Miss Gorham's pupils, was at the wheel of the car. When crossing the bridge the steering mechanism became unmanageable and the car swerved sharply, crashed through the railing and dropped into the water below.

Miss Gorham lay still in the stream, but the pupils whose injuries were of less serious extent picked her up and carried her to the bank. McQueeney was missed and his companions dashed back into the brook for him. So badly was he crushed that life was extinct. Help was summoned from nearby farmhouses and the body was taken to the boy's home.

TWO CHILDREN ARE SAVED FROM FIRE TRAP

Marlboro, Oct. 28.—Two children, trapped in the attic of their home when fire cut off their escape early today, were rescued by Marlboro firemen as they crouched in a corner surrounded by flames.

The fire was in the two-family house at No. 95 Rice street, occupied on the first floor by the family of Michael Kontogiane, and, on the second floor, by John J. Naomis, his wife and seven children.

The building was fired by an overheated stove.

4 HURT, BOY DRIVES AUTO ON SIDEWALK

Three boys and a man, the latter a passerby, went to the East Boston Relief Hospital when David Weker, seventeen, of No. 264 Bremen street, East Boston, drove an automobile on the sidewalk, striking Edward S. Bland of No. 312 Chelsea street, East Boston.

Weker and his two companions, Frank Marshall, seventeen, of No. 293 Bennington street, and Arthur Cucunato, sixteen, of No. 42 Lexington street, were spilled into the street.

200 MORE U. S. MARINES LAND IN CHINA

Peking, Oct. 28 (I.N.S.)—General Feng, whose coup d'etat has thrown the capital of China into turmoil, will be held personally responsible for the safety of all foreign interests in the city, according to a decision of the diplomatic representatives of the foreign powers, and communicated to Feng.

Tientsin, Oct. 28 (I.N.S.)—Two hundred additional American marines were landed today from the U. S. S. Huron to assist in the defense of the foreign settlements threatened by China's civil war.

The American civilian residents are forming a volunteer company to assist in defense if such a step becomes necessary.

Wu Pei Fu, ousted head of the Central government's military organization, who is struggling to regain control of Peking, today requested permission from the foreign consulates to remain in Tientsin for a few days. And it is believed this would contravene the Boxer protocol.

Wu Pei Fu's troops continue to pour through this city from Ching Wang Tao, continuing in the direction of Peking. Advices from Peking indicate that Feng Yuh Siang, whose coup wrested Peking from Wu's control, is preparing to attack Wu's forces at Lang Fang, 20 miles from Peking, while Sun Yu is leading an expedition into Honan with the object of capturing Wu's headquarters at Loyang.

Tokio, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The Japanese Cabinet, meeting today, decided to send two additional companies of troops, with machine gun corps, from Manchuria to Tientsin, China, for the protection of Japanese residents.

40 ARE RESCUED AT FIRE IN HAVERHILL

Haverhill, Oct. 28.—Forty lodgers in Tilton block were saved from death by suffocation when policemen, with drawn clubs, drove them from the building in their night clothing, early today.

A damage of $28,000 resulted before the flames were finally extinguished and the lodgers were permitted to return and secure outer clothing.

The fire broke out in the basement of the F. E. Nelson 5 and 10 cent store, which is located in the basement of the five-story Tilton block on Merrimack street. The first floor of the block is occupied by business places, the second floor by offices and the three upper floors by apartments and furnished rooms.

Patrolman Joseph Mangarpar discovered the fire. After turning in an alarm, he aroused the lodgers in the building, but many of these refused to flee to the street. The tenants insisted there was no danger and were leisurely in their movements until other police and firemen arrived and aided Mangarpar in driving the two score men, women and children into the street.

PHILIPPINE BILL ALLOWS RELIGION IN SCHOOLS

Manila, Oct. 28.—A bill permitting the teaching of religion in public schools in the Philippine Islands was passed by the House of Representatives yesterday, 31 to 26. The bill now goes to the Senate. It provides that classes in religion shall be held for fifteen minutes, and pupils are at liberty to accept or reject the study.

RICH U. S. GIRL WALKS TO HER DEATH IN SEA

By C. F. BERTELLI

Paris, Oct. 28.—Another gambling tragedy is reported from Biarritz, where an unidentified young woman, believed to have been an American, committed suicide in one of the weirdest fashions ever conceived in the brain of a self-destroyer.

Just as the tide was at ebb the girl, attired in a low-necked evening gown and an expensive ermine cloak, walked out of the casino, which faces the beach at the edge of the sea. Then she walked backward until the sea swallowed her.

UNCANNY SEQUEL

A still more uncanny sequel ensued. An elderly Frenchman, with whom the girl had been often seen, was discovered just as, fully dressed and carrying a blanket on his arm, he was about to walk out into the sea in the same way.

"Let me go to her—she is cold and needs this blanket."

So he cried struggling with his rescuers who had difficulty in mastering him.

MANY RUMORS

Biarritz is full of the wildest rumors as to the girl's identity.

On the day of the suicide she appeared without jewels, leading to the belief she had sold them to one of the many sharks in the gaming rooms in a desperate attempt to recoup her losses.

In appearance the girl was a blonde, tall, slender and very pretty.

BODY OF SLAIN WOMAN FOUND IN OLD MINE

Oxford, N. J., Oct. 28.—The body of a blonde bobbed-haired woman was found slain early today in an abandoned iron mine hole near here, has been identified as that of Mrs. Grace Thomas of Rocky Run, near Glen Gardner.

Frank Thomas, her husband, who established the woman's identity, after having been brought here by State police, told the officers that when he went home Sunday night he found the place deserted and his wife gone.

A blood-stained bed sheet bearing a bullet hole was also found in one of three burlap bags which, filled with woman's personal belongings, had been thrown into the hole on top of the body.

County physician Cummings said the woman had been dead about two days.

A small testament in which was written a name, was found in one of the bags, and was taken possession of by State police pending an investigation. They refused to divulge the name in the volume.

CHECK FOREST FIRE NEAR EXPLOSIVES

Dover, N. J., Oct. 28.—A forest fire which since Saturday had threatened tons of explosives at the Picatinny Arsenal today was declared to be practically dead. Only a few small blazes remain. Three square miles of woodland have been burned.

SOCIAL LEADERS TAKEN AS MAIL CAR ROBBERS

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 28 (I.N.S.)—Brent Glasscock, alias Howard, and his wife, Avis, who have been popular members of the social set at the Battle Creek Sanitarium since their arrival three weeks ago, were held today by Federal officials, the man as the last of the six principals in the Rondout (Ill.) $2,000,000 mail robbery of June 12, and the woman as a conspirator.

The Glasscocks were arrested last night in a fashionable home, where they had taken a suite when Glasscock started treatment at the sanitarium. Acting on a tip from post-office inspectors, police visited the home and confronted the couple.

Mrs. Glasscock had a sumptuous wardrobe, appraised by police at $10,000. She was wearing at least $25,000 worth of gems, and had in her possession about $48,000 in currency and a sack of unset diamonds.

U. S. Girl Wins London Suit

London, Oct. 28 (Universal).—Gladys Waterbury, daughter of John Waterbury, an American banker, was awarded $4,250 damages against the Hyde Park Hotel for the loss of baggage, which she deposited there last year.

MORE TAXICAB RATES TO BE CUT DOWN

The taxicab rate war, which started in Boston the first of the week, now includes three companies and others are expected to slash their rates at any time.

The management of the Yellow Taxicab Company has announced that it will follow the lead of the Checker and Premier companies and will cut rates as soon as new meters can be installed in the company's cars.

Officials of other operating companies, following hastily called conferences, intimated that the cuts already made by some of the companies will be met within the next day or two.

An announcement regarding rates is to be issued by the Town Taxicab Company sometime today. Officials of the Fenway Company are also meeting today to determine what action will be taken on rates.

It is believed that before the end of the week all the larger companies will have cut their rates. The Armstrong Company, however, indicated that it is doubtful whether they will lower their rates at present.

RUBBER FIRM HEAD SHOT, NEGRO BOY HELD

Orange, N. J., Oct. 28.—Leaving his home to mail a letter, Lewis Hiltenhouse, president of the Hiltenhouse Rubber Company of Newark was confronted by two men and fatally shot when he refused to heel their "Hands up!" command.

Edward Drew, a nineteen-year-old Orange negro, is under arrest at headquarters charged with shooting, although he denies it.

JUDGE CONFIDENT HE WILL BE ELECTED

Washington, Oct. 28. (I.N.S.)—President Coolidge predicted his own election today. With the campaign drawing to a close and the decision at the polls but a week away, Mr. Coolidge dropped some of the reserve that has characterized his utterances about the Presidential race and told callers at the White House he fully expected to be there four more years.

CHANGE IN SCHEDULE OF WORK RESENTED

1,000 Said to Have Signed Paper Protesting Longer Sessions

Pupils of Brookline High School are preparing to strike against the one-half-hour longer session made effective Monday by the school committee.

Pupil leaders of the 1,200 students in the school today said that the strike proposal spread like wildfire when it was learned that the school committee might not consider their formal protest until their regular meeting of the committee set for November 10 next.

Already about 1,100 of the pupils have signed the protest, and it was said that at least two of the teaching staff had added their names to the petitions.

CIRCULATE PETITIONS.

Circulation of the petitions followed a conference of a committee of the students with the Hev. Malcolm Taylor, chairman of the High School Parent-Teachers' Association. Mr. Taylor is said to have advised the committee to obtain proof of the sentiment of the pupils in some form such as a petition.

WANT QUICK ACTION.

Although the students were aware of a report that their petition might be considered at a special meeting before November 10 none gave it any credence in view of the belief that Chairman Walter Humphrey of the school committee would not move from his announced decision to consider the situation at the scheduled meeting, prevailing it was brought before the committee "officially."

Some of the students were inclined to feel that their petition would not be recognized as "official" in any event and that the surest way to obtain action would be to declare a "strike."

Just how much of an element this mild weather for the season was infatuating the striking-pole strikers can only be surmised.

The student committee of four, however, collected signatures so quickly that there is no doubt of the feeling against the extension of the closing time from 1:30 to 2 p. m. The school session begins at 8:30 a. m.

BIG FIGHT ON FOR REGULAR JOBS ON HARVARD ELEVEN

FIGHT WEEK AHEAD FOR REGULARS

By NICK FLATLEY.

VARIOUS and sundry Harvard cripples are recovering from the effects of a furious Dartmouth football game, and the entire squad was out this afternoon, getting ready for the Princeton pastime next two weeks hence. There are bad knees and ankles and wrists and shoulders on the Crimson squad, but all the defects will be blotted off one another. Important collision breaks the picture. Harvard plays B. U. Saturday, and thereby wins a chance to rest up the regulars. Looks as if the schedule makers knew their job when they lined things.

* * *

SORT of a fight week opened at Harvard today. The battered regulars and the ambitious subs were all out on the gridiron. Plenty of the regulars were in disrepute. They had fivvered, oh so dismally, against the big Green. They had failed to knock off young Mr. Dooley, the best backfield tackler since Charlie Daly was on the job. They had dropped passes and loose footballs. They had done everything that members of a Harvard squad should have forgotten in prep school days. The coaches, after a two-day week-end, were in good form. They told the boys something. The lineup Saturday will make the B. U. game worth seeing. It will inform a puzzled universe about the identity of the mistake makers in the Dartmouth game.

* * *

THE Harvard pilots know what the trouble was, though. They realize that their team lacked speed and determination when the crisis arrived in the last two periods. They could see that a snappy offensive covered a Dartmouth outfit that was fagged, and almost ready to be beaten. Had Harvard improved a trifle, added something, attack through the second half, Harvard would have won that game. The squad will always wonder why the so-called clever quarterbacks have to recite their signals interminably; have to push their backs into motion; have to waste precious seconds when glory waits just around the corner.

* * *

WE have watched Harvard beaten in the past few years by Brown, by Centre, by Dartmouth, by Yale. And the answer to the defeat was always buried in a too careful plan of attack. The quarters always confer and rehearse, on the field. They have their doubts and transfer them to the rest of the squad. Dartmouth, Yale and Princeton come along and sweep past the soft spots by more speed of attack. The Crimson, with the same opportunity, staggers into a brain session. All that is changing, now, but the shift hasn't been fast enough. The boys who were rushed out from the sidelines Saturday didn't impart the snap that was the only thing lacked for Harvard triumph.

* * *

THAT being said, we can now turn attention to the fact that some of the Harvard cripples is seriously that way; that all the varsity material will be on hand for the Princeton game. And said material will be in there with a lot of stuff that was lacking against Dartmouth. Bob Fisher has unmanufactured the makings of a great Harvard team. He produced the power in the session that normally were devoted to conditioning. He will produce the fitness from now on. Robert is quite efficient. His present array is the first that really had the shoe makings. He's out on a system of his own.

* * *

HEINIE DUNKER will be back with the Crimson when the Tiger game begins. And that means a powerful addition to the line, which has been very good to date. Heinie had a young case of diphtheria, but recovered from the same. The fact that he wants his job back will make all the young men who have been in there hustle just a little bit harder. And that extra touch of hustle will make the team.

HASKELL INDIANS WILL ARRIVE HERE THURSDAY

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 28.—Redskin Gridiron warriors of Haskell Institute, 28 strong, left Lawrence for a two weeks' invasion along the Atlantic Coast. The Braves will play two Eastern elevens on the trip, being scheduled to meet Boston College team at Boston Saturday, and Brown at Providence, the following week-end.

The Redskins from the West are due to arrive in Boston Thursday morning.

Walter Johnson.

WALTER JOHNSON, whose pitching arm hoisted the pennant of world supremacy for the Washington baseball club, arrived in San Francisco today to look over the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast Baseball League, as a possible buy.

Johnson is free to admit that he would like to own a good big share in the Trans-Bay outfit. The Oakland owners, J. Cal Ewing and others, admit they might sell if they like the color scheme of Johnson's bank roll.

George Weiss, owner of the New Haven team of the Eastern League; Joe Devine, scout for the Pittsburgh Club, and Joe Engle, scout for the Washington club, accompanied Johnson.

BOB FITZ.. AND JOE BURKE TOP C.A.C. CARD TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY

OLDTIMERS will talk about Bob Fitzsimmons and his famous Solar Plexus punch when his son, Bob Fitz, Jr., steps into the ring against Joe Burke of Detroit in the feature ten-round bout of an all-star card at the Commercial A. C's show at Mechanics Building tonight. Freckled Bob, as the former heavyweight champion was known to boxing fans throughout the world, had early ring training. He figured that the boy would eventually batter his way into the select pugilistic circles.

Although not as deadly a puncher as his father, Young Bob has the same uncanny knowledge of the fine points of the flistic racket that enabled his dad to knock out the illustrious Jim Corbett. The youngster has taken part in thirty bouts and has never lost a decision.

"Of course we have been beaten to the wire in some of the no-decision towns," said Manager Billy McCarney, "but whenever Young Bob has gone to the post in a place where verdicts are allowed he has been out front when the final blow has gone whizzing through the air."

BURKE has been a rather active campaigner in the Middle West. For some time he has been trying to secure a match with Jim Maloney or Jack Sharkey. He believes that by walloping Young Bob he will be able to force the local heavyweight stars to give him recognition.

* * *

GEORGE ROBINSON, Cambridge middleweight, will have Billy Britton of Kansas City as an opponent in the semi-final of ten frames.

Willie Grodwell of Somerville and Sammy Marco of Montreal will also battle ten rounds, as will Johnny Duthbert of England and Tommy Murray of Philadelphia.

* * *

PAL REED, Natick middleweight, is back in our midst after a successful campaign in the West and South States. Pal has put on weight and now scales 162 pounds. In the past Reed has never weighed more than 154 pounds which has been a handicap to him when battling 165-pound middleweights. Although only twenty-four years of age, the Natick warrior has battled virtually every middleweight of note in the world. At Pittsburgh last Winter, he gave Harry Greb one of the hardest battles that worthy has had since he won the middleweight title.

WALKER TAKES ON MALONE AT NEWARK

By ED CURLEY

New York, Oct. 28.—Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion, has dropped strenuous training. Mickey figures he will be in good enough condition to knock Jock Malone woozy tomorrow evening at the Newark Armory. In fact, Mickey has informed all his friends he will make Jock regret he came East.

This may be so, and again it may not. The fact that Mickey says he will do his best to knyo Malone means a good fight is in prospect. Mickey is in a position where he has to make a great showing to uphold his reputation.

Mickey Walker is a wonderful fighter. None denies this. A natural welterweight, Walker is tough enough to beat practically every middleweight in the business, and that includes Harry Greb. We'll admit that Greb at one was a wizard, but right now Walker looms up as his conqueror.

Mickey is younger than Greb and has led a cleaner life than the middleweight champion. That will tell in a clash and Mickey should triumph. It may be that talking about a fight with Greb is premature, but it may come along, for Harry has no real contenders to battle with.

PRO GOLFERS TO FORM LEAGUE IN FLORIDA

New York, Oct. 28.—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, announced plans for the formation of the Professional Golfers' League of Florida. This is the first league of its kind ever organized and is being tried out as an experiment with the idea of making it a permanent feature of Florida's Winter season if it proves successful.

Ten of the leading professional golfers in the country will play home-and-home matches in the various Florida resorts. Hagen and Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick-shot golfer, will represent Pasadena-on-the-Gulf. Bobby Jones, Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegal will represent Hollywood, while Mike Brady and Tommy Armour will play for Miami. One other team in the Jacksonville-St. Augustine district is planned to bring the total number of teams to five.

Play will start early in January and continue throughout February.

Trade Blanks Brighton

The best looking Brighton High eleven that has shown up on a game this season was knocked off by Trade, 6 to 0, at Braves field.

Trude, it may be remembered, is still in the undefeated class and in line for the Hub title.

Trade's touchdown came when one of its players blocked a Brighton punt and another member picked it up on the edge of the goal line and tallied.

Binkley Signed Up to Meet Stasiak on Mat

When Stanley Stasiak, the Lion of Poland, and Cliff Binkley, the mid-Western sensation, clash at the Grand Opera House next Thursday night the wrestling fans of Greater Boston should witness a contest that will long be remembered.

The fact that both men are absolute top-notchers and have won falls from Champion Ed Strangler Lewis has added much to the interest of the local fans, as the loser will be eliminated from a chance to meet Lewis in the immediate future at least.

Many close followers of his game figure Stasiak is in for a good trimming Thursday night and little short of the house caving in can save him from a beating. Stanley himself seems to realize what he is up against and is training as never before.

In another bout Joe Mskowicz will hook up with Savage Tooles in a one-fall match, while Frank Brune and Jack Albright, the Boston favorites, will meet in a finish match.

FIVE ARRESTED AT NEW BEDFORD FIGHT

New Bedford, Oct. 28.—State police descended on the Elm Rink while a prize fight was in progress and arrested five occupants of ringside seats on the charge of open gambling.

The State police were summoned, it is said, by Chief of Police Edward F. Doherty. Recently there have been many complaints concerning the betting on the various bouts staged at the Elm Rink, and this finally caused the chief to act.

The five men arrested gave their names as Henry Cohen of No. 23 Sair street, Julius Herman of No. 857 Palmer street, Charles T. Gomes of No. 438 South Water street, Anthony Rogers of No. 19 Stackhouse street and David Guerre of No. 81 Frank street. They were released under $1,000 bonds each.

M. Siki in Again

Battling Siki will return to the ring again on November 7, when he is to meet Battling Ruske in a twelve-round battle at Passaic, N. J.

SHARKEY AND MALONEY SIGN FOR HEAVYWEIGHT BATTLE

Jack Sharkey, sensational Roxbury heavyweight, and Jim Maloney, South Boston heavyweight ace, have been matched to battle in a ten-round bout under the direction of the Suffolk A. A. at Mechanics Building a week from tomorrow night. Articles of agreement were signed by Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, and Johnny McGrath, Maloney's pilot, after negotiations extending over a six week period.

Every club in Boston had tried to land this pugilistic plum. Matchmaker Tom Goodwin was obliged to make a record bid to secure this match.

Sharkey blazed his way to fame by wins over Floyd Johnson, Homer Smith and Al Roberts. His only serious reverse was received at the hands of Quinito Romero Rojas. This setback is attributed to the lack of condition. As Romero ran out of a bout with Sharkey, originally planned for this week, he apparently does not care to mingle with the Roxbury puncher.

Maloney has not lost a bout since he turned pro. His most impressive victory was over Joe Steward at the Wills-Firpo show. He later returned to Boston and conquered Tom Gardner and Joe McCann by the power of his tremendous right hand smash.

Sharkey has been training at Wamesit under the direction of Jack (Twin) Sullivan for three weeks, while Maloney has been working out daily at Kelly & Hayes' gym.

BULLDOG SHOW TO BE HELD HERE SOON

Arrangements are nearing completion for the annual exhibition by the Bulldog Club of Boston, to be held November 1 in Horticultural Hall.

This specialty show provides an excellent opportunity for lovers of the breed to get acquainted with the bulldog of today; a canine species which would, to quote J. Hay Hutchison, the famous authority, "have become as extinct as the dodo but for the care of enthusiastic fanciers."

The bulldog, to those who know him, represents the true aristocracy of dogdom. Were his ancestry not as well grounded as it is, and his genealogy as secure, his very simplicity of manner and bearing would indicate unquestionable good breeding.

PROMOTERS HELD AFTER BOXER'S DEATH

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 28.—An autopsy to determine the cause of death of Ralph Tenace, middleweight boxer of the Bronx, who collapsed and died last night in the ring during a bout with Alberto Yochna, South American, was to be held today.

Police ordered everyone connected with the staging of the bout taken into custody until an investigation could be completed.

LOVEJOY AND BENCH OUT WITH BRUISES

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 28.—Slight muscle bruises which were received by Captain Winslow Lovejoy and Quarterback Eddie Bench in Saturday's game against Brown developed and kept both out of the dummy football and signal drill which were on the program. Both players will be handled lightly all the week.

DARTMOUTH ELEVEN TAKES AFTERNOON OFF

Hanover, Oct. 28.—The entire Dartmouth football squad took a day off, spending the afternoon walking and resting. The talk on the Harvard game was put off until today when preparations for the Brown game begin.

Injuries received by the team in the game Saturday at the Stadium were only trivial. Under the care of Trainer Harry Hillman, the team will be in shape for the Brown game.

Joe Bush Bags Moose

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 28.—Joe Bush, star pitcher of the New York Yankees, has killed one of the biggest bull moose shot in New Brunswick this year, according to word received from the Tobique Woods, where he is hunting with Charlie Cremin, New Brunswick guide.

Bob Shawkey and F. Hoffman, also of the Yankees, and Eddie Collina, captain of the Chicago White Sox, are also in the party.

HUB AGAIN TO HAVE THREE ICE TEAMS

The three amateur puck teams which carried Boston's colors in the United States Amateur Hockey Association race last year are the only certainties to start in the Eastern section of the circuit this year. They are the Boston A. A., Maple A. A. and Boston Hockey Club.

Applications were received from Providence, New York and Philadelphia and it is quite likely that they will round out the Eastern section, with New Haven no longer in the circuit.

BROWN RE-ELECTED.

Officers elected were president for two years, William S. Haddock of Pittsburg; first vice-president for two years, George V. Brown of Boston; second vice-president for one year, J. E. Fitzgerald, St. Paul, Minn.; secretary-treasurer for two years, Roy D. Schooley of Pittsburg; executive committee, Tim Shea of Eveleth, Minn., for three years; W. Gordon Hegardt of Duluth, Minn., for two years; Paul Louden of Minneapolis, Minn., for three years; Thomas J. Kanaly of Boston for two years.

PLAY STARTS DEC. 1.

The championship season will start Dec. 1. Schedules for both sections will be announced Nov. 7. George V. Brown of the Boston Arena and Joseph P. Sheridan of the Maple A. A. will draft the Eastern dates, while Secretary Schooley and J. E. Fitzgerald of St. Paul will draw up the Western fixtures.

The Eastern representatives will meet this week-end to determine the length of their season, as behind bound by the Western series.

Fordham Favored to Defeat N. Y. U.

One of the big football games scheduled for next Saturday will find New York' University and Fordham University, two of New York's own colleges, facing each other in the Yankee Stadium in their third annual clash.

This contest will be the rubber contest, Fordham having won in 1922 by 14-6, while N. Y. U. was victorious in 1923 by a decisive 20-0 count.

The rivalry between the two Bronx institutions is naturally a keen one, and the fact that the fray will mark the rubber engagement means that a closer and more exciting battle than usual is on the books for this week.

Diegel to Make Home in N. Y.

New York, Oct. 27.—Leo Diegel has accepted the position as professional of the Glen Oaks Golf and Country Club, formerly the William L. Vanderbilt estate, at Great Neck. L. I. It is announced that George Diegel, Leo's brother, will be assistant pro at the club. The Glen Oaks will open its links on Decoration Day next year.

HAUGHTON DIES ON EVE OF ATTAINING GREATEST TRIUMPH

GREATEST ORGANIZER IN GAME

By HERBERT REED.

Percy D. Haughton, famous football coach who died in a New York hospital last night shortly after being stricken by heart disease on the gridiron, was one of the outstanding figures in American college football of all times.

He was taken at a time when he seemed on the eve of attaining the greatest coaching triumph of his career. He had been told that in attempting to make his system effective at Columbia he was essaying the improbable, but those who had been for years in close touch with his methods never doubted his success. It was born in the man, and so strong was the habit of victory that it led to the building up around him of myth and legend.

MYSTERY A MYTH.

In reality there was less of mystery about his system than he himself loved with a sort of sardonic humor to invest it with. To the outsider Haughton was always the man of mystery; to his aides, his players and his friends, he was a brilliant and lovable figure, for there was a side to him never turned to the general public. He enjoyed publicity, no doubt—it pleased his humor, but he was at all times just a little withdrawn from the general public, and even from the general run of football coaches. He went his own way serene in his knowledge of power.

There probably have been men who knew as much about football as Haughton, and probably there are some in the lists today, but there never was a greater organizer, nor a greater football dramatist. Haughton inspired a blind confidence such as no other football coach has ever been able to command. With Haughton football was drama—generally melodrama. He played upon the game, and upon the men who played it like a musician on the strings of a violin. All sorts of different temperaments and different conditions were finally enslaved to his will.

ALWAYS DRAMATIC.

Even his first appearance as a coach savored of the dramatic. I remember him well playing on the Harvard eleven of 1898 when he turned in from his position at tackle as great an exhibition of placed punting as ever was seen on any gridiron. He was at that time a superb athlete and a handsome chap on top of that, always somewhat austere, save when among a small group of friends. He was not popular in the group, but he had a great fund of personal magnetism none the less. In later years he was a racquet champion, a prominent figure in the first Plattsburgh Camp and active in all things athletic.

It was the late Francis Burr who was primarily responsible for calling him to Harvard, when the latter's team had on its hand the greatest problem in the college football world. An aristocrat himself, he democratized Harvard football at once and put it on its feet in one session.

He developed players from the most unsuspected material. He was the inventor of the punting and the drop-kicking specialist, and of what may best be called the intellectual quarterback.

Flowers and Robinson

New York, Oct. 28.—Another pugilistic treat is in store for local footic followers on Saturday night, when Tiger Flowers and George Robinson of Boston clash for twelve rounds in the main attraction at the Commonwealth Sporting Club.

Boston American Again First in Sport Field

The Boston American is again first in sports, as usual! Last Saturday was a big day in football. Of course the Boston American showed the way to all other Boston evening newspapers in printing the first and most complete news of the various gridiron classics.

Famous Linkswomen to Play in Meets at St. Augustine

St. Augustine, Fla., Oct. 28—America's leading women golfers will play a prominent part in the elaborate sports program being arranged for St. Augustine this Winter.

Several tournaments are being scheduled especially for the fair wielders of mashies and niblicks, and invitations have already been extended to such famous players as Miss Glenna Collett, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, three times winner of the national title; Miss Alexa Stirling, former United States champion; Miss Miriam Burns, the young Kansas City star, and a host of others of almost equal rank.

The local schedule for the women golfers will vie with that at Ormond Beach, seventy miles away, which has listed five tournaments for them.

The same entry will appear at both these places and the most interesting competition is assured.

It is planned to hold the first big tournament here early in January. Should Miss Stirling come down from Atlantic, it will mark her first appearances in nearly a year, as this star has been ill since last Spring.

The tournament will also bring together the two closest rivals of the last two years—Miss Collett and Mrs. Hurd.

Arrangements have been received from the leading mermaids who scored for America at the last Olympic games that they will be on hand for the aquatic carnival.

A bid is to be made for the national championship in diving and swimming.

Ormond Beach has completed its golf program, and is now busy arranging for trap shooting matches between the outstanding amateurs and for a series of motor boat championships on the beach which is regarded the finest along the Atlantic seaboard.

Tributes to Haughton

COACH FISHER

"It is hard to believe that Percy Haughton is dead," said Coach Robert T. Fisher. "He was so eternally active and his spirit was so dominant that it seems impossible to believe that he is not still with us.

DEAN BRIGGS

I believe that those who know football regard Percy Haughton as one of the greatest coaches the game has seen, and those of us who do not know it can but concur with them.

DR. PAUL WITHINGTON.

"Percy Haughton's death is such a blow that I can hardly grasp it. He made a very great impression upon me as a coach in the days when I was an undergraduate player at Harvard and he always stood to me as the very highest type of football man."

HUNTINGTON HARDWICK.

"I am so dumbfounded I hardly know what to say. He was such a wonderful fellow. He was a great coach. There'll never be another like him."

"BIG BILL" EDWARDS.

"I can't say anything too fine about Percy Haughton," Mr. Edwards said. "He had a wonderful football brain. He was a powerful leader. Men who knew him loved him because he always gave all there was in him."

JAMES L. KNOX.

"One of the greatest, if not the greatest constructive genius that American football has known was taken from us when 'P. D.s' life was so suddenly snuffed out."

EDWARD N. ROBINSON.

"Percy Haughton was a great coach and a great sportsman. He believed in taking chances. In doing the unexpected thing in fotoball and his teams were thorough in all they undertook."

TAD JONES.

"Intercollegiate sport in America has lost an outstanding figure. I had admired him both as a coach and as a man.

JACK OWSLEY.

"Haughton put brains in football. He did more to make the gridiron sport one of strategy than anyone else I can recall. He was a splendid sportsman, a game winner and a game loser.

WALTER CAMP.

"The news is one of the greatest shocks I could receive. Percy Haughton has been a commanding figure in football for so many years that it seems impossible to think of him as no longer with us.

GIL DOBIE.

"With great regret I heard of the sudden and untimely death of Percy D. Haughton. Mr. Haughton had long been one of the most prominent characters in the football world. With his death, Columbia loses a great and successful coach."

PERCY WENDELL.

"The sudden and tragic death of Percy Duncan Haughton has robbed the world of one of its greatest, all time athletes, and the game of football of its most sincere student and deepest friend.

"I am unable to express my feelings of personal sorrow. And yet to all who had the privilege to be personally associated with P. D. there is a consoling knowledge that he did as he had lived on the gridiron the undisputed master of the game he loved."

FRED W. MOORE.

"I consider Percy Haughton the greatest football genius that Harvard ever had, if not the greatest that America ever had. He had the ability to make the most of the particular excellences of the players under him. He was a wonderful athlete himself and had the marvelous capacity of getting the very best out of everyone who came under him."

EDWARD N. ROBINSON.

"Percy Haughton was a great coach and a great sportsman. He believed in taking chances. In doing the unexpected thing in fotoball and his teams were thorough in all they undertook."

TAD JONES.

"Intercollegiate sport in America has lost an outstanding figure. I had admired him both as a coach and as a man.

JACK OWSLEY.

Andy Martin defeated Matty Cordes of West Lynn in the ten round main bout of the Casino A. C. show at Lynn. Johnny Barrett of Cambridge took an eight-round decision from Ted Blodgett of West Lynn, and Billy Muldoon of Lynn copped in the opener when Bull Mason of Weymouth quit in the third with a sprained knee.

ENGLISH HIGH OFFENSIVE IN DORCHESTER TEST TODAY

By FRED C. LANE

"Unless English High football squad changes its tactics and plays as good offensive football as they can the defensive game, Dorchester High will win todays combat."

Coach Wilson is the author of this statement, and Ed should know for he has seen his team go through four hard struggles without showing the qualifications that make a winning club.

As Coach Wilson said, "They are more clever on the defensive. My force can play offense football if they care, but to date have not shown sufficient fight to get very far. Unless they are pushed within the shadows of their goal post, they have a tendency to lay back and trust that everything will come back in the wash."

This statement perhaps accounts for the lack of scoring power of the team this year. The team plays its games with Cleveland Tech and lost to Boston College High 40 to 0 touchdown [illegible] by two field goals.

The English line has every qualification necessary to make it the best in the city except that they lack the fighting qualities. If the boys can work up a little spirit in this respect when in possession of the ball today, a real football game is in store for the hundreds of fans who will journey to Braves Field

Gridironies

By THE REFEREE

Coach Bob Fisher has started to frame his machine for the year's game with Brown on the Cambridge gridiron Saturday's attraction. The season's [illegible] go as a [illegible] day for the Crimson grid warriors.

Speaking of the Boston University eleven it was an Army tank that run over them [illegible] the crack West Point eleven [illegible] were only practicing for [illegible] with the Bulldog at the Yale Bowl.

There will be an early rush for Hanover, N. H., towards the middle of the week when rooters for the Brown Bears and the Green followers seek tickets for the annual Brown and Dartmouth tussle.

The hustling Purple team doesn't look any too good with Bill Glennon and Crowley out of the lineup. The Worcester aggregation will journey to Burlington on Saturday for their engagement with Tom Keady's Vermont eleven.

The Haskell Indians should feel right at home playing at the Wigwam with the Boston College eleven on Saturday. This looks like the big week-end game in Greater Boston.

Separating the chaff from the wheat after pondering over the football scores of Saturday, it looks very much as if all the college football warriors ran true to form, except Columbia.

Notre Dame once more stands out as a post graduate institution in so far as footballing is concerned. Year after year Knute Rockne, the miracle man of the mid-West, brings his elevens to the East and literally walks away with the opposition offered.

* * *

Princeton never made any more extended preparation for Yale or Harvard than it did to reap revenge on these pesky disturbers in the football world. But all of Coach Bill Roper's strategy and all of his men did a Christy Mathewson fade away when the captainless team of Notre Dame swung into real action.

* * *

There was just a tinge of an insult, too, on the part of Strategian Rockne. He sent his second team against the Tigers in the first period And old Nassau never made a point.

* * *

First rank recognition must be given Dartmouth for its second successive triumph over Harvard. Following a terrific tussle with Yale the Hanoverians stuck to the pace and beat the best team that the Crimson could boast. The only star out was Dunker.

* * *

And let it be known that the much-criticized Dewey played no mean part in the Green's victory. Talk about comebacks, this was one.

PIRATES SWAP 3 VETERANS WITH CUBS

Pittsburgh Oct 28.—More hitting [illegible] the Pirates [illegible] in late season [illegible] was the chief consideration of the Pittsburgh National [illegible] trading Walter Maranville, second baseman, Charley [illegible] first baseman, and Wilbur [illegible] left handed pitcher, to the Cubs [illegible] exchange for Vic Aldridge, right hand pitcher, George Grantham, second baseman and Albert Niehaus, first baseman. No money was involved in the deal.

Aldridge has been a member of the Chicago club for two years, coming from the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League Club.

George Grantham came to the Cubs two years ago from the Omaha Western League Club, and was a field captain during 1923.

UP WITH LEADERS.

Niehaus was one of the leading first basemen of the Southern Association and was to have reported to the Cubs next Spring. He is a right hand hitter.

In Cooper, the Cubs have obtained one of the best left hand pitchers in baseball. Cooper last season was one of four pitchers credited with winning twenty games. Vance and Grimm of the Dodgers, and Carl Mays of the Reds, being the others.

"For years now we have been in the pennant race right up to the last week," said Barney Dreyfus, "and each year we have failed to pull through in a pinch. Lack of hitting power, it seems, has been the chief cause of our failure, and it was to overcome this weakness that we have made the changes just announced."

GRANTHAM TO FIELD.

Dreyfuss said that Eddie Moore, [illegible] infielder who joined the Pirates last season will replace Grantham at second base, while Grantham, a newly hitter, will assume right field. Near the end of [illegible] season Moore played in right field but was kept in the game on account of his hitting [illegible]

3-MINUTE JOURNEYS

By Temple Manning

WEMBLEY, a London suburb, hitherto unknown, is on the itinerary of all visitors to Europe this season, for it is the home of the first great exposition since the World War—the British Empire Exhibition.

All the dominions under the flag of England, with the exception of the Irish Free State, are participants in the Empire Show. South Ireland stayed out because there is still considerable hostility to the Empire within its borders.

The London Underground lands the visitors at Wembley in about twenty minutes from Piccadilly Circus. Admittance to the show is only about thirty cents in American money, making it practical for the poor as well as the rich to visit the well-advertised exhibition.

Beyond them is a small lake spanned with many bridges, and extending to right and left are the buildings of the dominions. The buildings housing the exhibits of Canada and Australia are the most imposing, but that of Burma is an exquisite pavilion, and those of India, Ceylon are very attractive.

His Majesty's building houses the War, Navy and Government Departments. A gigantic map showing that about one-third of the surface of the globe is British soil is the feature of this building. It lies flat on the floor. The oceans are real water and operated by some mysterious agency, a myriad of little ships move back and forth over the trade routes.

The dominating feature of Wembley, however, is the Stadium, which seats more than the Yale Bowl, and which is intended to be permanent. During June and July an American rodeo show was the attraction.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

"I COME of a long-lived family," is a remark you often hear.

The same fact is always taken into consideration by life insurance companies in determining how long you may be expected to live.

Dr. Mahoney.

The relation of the parental arc to our own probable continuance on this mundane sphere is naturally a subject of rather more than academic interest.

In the first place, then, let it be understood that the eugenists do not look upon longevity as an unit character. That is to say, it is not a trait or quality that is transmissible in definite form and in definite teams from parent to offspring.

They, however, recognize that longevity does depend upon such unit characters as stature, weight, general harmony of organisms, bodily vigor, mental capacity and immunity against infections.

After long study, the late Dr. B. W. Richardson, of London, established a rule for determining the probable duration of life based on hereditary factors for offspring who have attained adult age as follows:

Add the ages both parents and grandparents had attained before they died, divide by 6; the result will be the child's normal expectation of life.

If one or both parents are alive, ascertain the expectancy of each by the same rule, and use the result to compute the expectancy of the adult offspring.

But, be it remembered that your length of life depends a great deal upon yourself and your mode of living.

I would recommend that you go to the nose and throat clinic of the Boston City Hospital for examination and treatment.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

How much we detest individuals who are always putting their nose into other people's affairs. "Mind your own business" is a thought which often comes to our mind even if we don't always let it come from our lips.

The worst pryer into other people's business has become the United States government. How long will the public, how long should the public submit?

• • •

It was bad enough to have to comply with all the orders issued by income tax collectors. When you and I prepared our income tax statements we understood very distinctly that they were for the information of the government officials only, we did not dream for a moment that they would be exposed before the public. But the politicians, having contracted a mania for probing everything and everybody under the sun, could not resist losing into the snoome of everybody in the land. What the effect will be upon public sentiment remains to be seen. The likelihood is that such indignation will be aroused that the public will call a halt upon further inquisitorial manoeuvers on the part of the politicians.

• • •

That the public are becoming resentful of governmental inquisition is reflected clearly by the many indignant letters received commending the articles recently printed in this column concerning the conduct of the Federal Trade Commission. The suggestion was then made that the commission be compelled to change its tactics drastically or be done away with.

• • •

An executive of a very large California enterprise writes cordially approving the article, says:

"The whole press of the United States should, I think, take this subject up and get the Federal Trade Commission to understand what they were created for. What we really need on the commission is at least a fair percentage of business men of broad experience, instead of expoliticians and lawyers."

• • •

"It is time that some newspaper in the United States took up the cudgel of the merchants and relieved them of the present persecution. I, myself, was treated almost as if I were a criminal by a Federal Trade Commission attorney in a case that they had against my firm some three years ago, putting me to a large expense when they absolutely had no evidence against me. My expense was only nominal compared with the expense that the wholesale grocers of this city were put to on this very case."

• • •

Think of this: Although no fewer than 1,200 complaints have been issued by the Federal Trade Commission about thirteen of these complaints have been finally decided upon, appealed and sustained.

• • •

A New York attorney in the course of a lengthy letter, makes these statements:

"A competitor or association of competitors may lay a complaint before the commission, and the person against whom complaint is laid cannot find out who is the true complainant. This gives a competitor a terrific allegation to be used in the dark.

"One manufacturer used a trademark for the last 20 years which it has always applied to its goods, so that the goods are nationally and internationally recognized by this trademark. It has spent $3,000,000 in advertising this mark. The commission has filed a complaint alleging that the use of this trademark is calculated to mislead and deceive the public—notwithstanding the fact that the product is sold with a money back guarantee.

"Meantime, the news of the complaint was broadcasted from Washington through newspapers, and in this respondent sells very largely to the leading department stores all over the country, and its business has been very severely hurt. But under present conditions, there is no redress, nor any legal means for making a recovery of this loss.

"Ordinary process of law is disregarded when a conference is asked for at the offices of the Federal Trade Commission, and every one of the officials with whom I have come in contact have handled this matter in a most high-handed way."

• • •

The American people are patient and long-suffering. But isn't it time tax-payers who seriously harass business and therefore hurt employment and raise the cost of living were put in their proper place?

NEW ENGLAND'S GOODS ARE IN DEMAND

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

New England's goods are in notable demand.

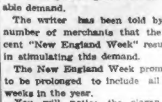
The writer has been told by a number of merchants that the recent "New England Week" resulted in stimulating this demand.

The New England Week promises to be prolonged to include all the weeks in the year.

You will notice the slogan of "Made in New England" in connection with a great deal of advertising and on many products.

• • •

New England's men as well as her products are in demand. The financial districs hear that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is waiting for President Coolidge's re-election in order to retire to manage his own very extensive private interests.



Secretary Mellon Secretary Weeks

With this story goes the report that he will be succeeded as head of the Treasury by Secretary f War John W. Weeks of New Hampshire and Massachusetts. It is a little early for Cabinet making, but those in Wall Street and State Street are always looking pretty well ahead. It is necessary.

• • •

A certain garment manufacturer who is a regular customer of the Parr Alpaca Co., of Holyoke, says the Boston News Bureau, has become convinced that there is something in the slogan, "Made in New England." A short time ago he succumbed to a salesman's chatter and purchased a supply of linings from foreign sources. He advised the Holyoke manufacturer that he had done this and later complied with their request for a sample of the lining. By a certain mark on the selvage the Parr Alpaca Co. recognized the cloth as their own product and the end part of the incident is the garment manufacturer had paid five cents a out above the domestic market for his "imported" linings.

• • •

Betting on the outcome of the approaching elections is one of the most discussed topics in the financial districts. Interest in the elections was never more intense within the writer's memory. This may be due in part to the radio, sales of which are said to have been notably stimulated during the past few weeks. Many who gathered at the radio only a comparatively few people could hear the oratory of the principal figures in an election; now many millions can "listen in." The writer tuned in, the other evening, to three New York stations, to Newark, N. J., and to Holyoke, all within a few minutes, and at every station there was a talk going on which either directly or indirectly on next month's balloting.

Note that the motion pictures also place us "face to face" with the candidates of today.

Besides doing $526,860 worth more interest business during the second quarter of 1924 than the previous one, reaching total figures of $1,-$89,872, Maine boosted its quarterly quotient among the states of the Union from forty-first to thirty ninth place, superceding the States of Delaware and North Dakota, according to statistics just compiled by the Department of Commerce.

Paper, except printed matter, shipments continued to lead the list of export items, being valued at $271,082, an increase over the previous quarter of $65,626.

BUYING OF COPPER IS REPORTED BETTER

There has been increased buying of copper on an advancing market. Recent sales were on the basis of 13¾ to 13¾ cents, delivered. The new week opened with a good demand for both home and foreign account. Brass mills have taken a substantial tonnage for November, December and January delivery.

NEW HIGHS SET IN NEW YORK DEALINGS

In trading on the New York Stock Exchange, Heavy liquidation of a few industrial stocks, based on unfavorable earnings reports; a higher renewal rate for call money and omission of the Federal Sugar Refining dividend were largely ignored by the general market, prices moving upward steadily during the morning.

Rails were stimulated by a record in freight car loadings the week before last and by favorable earnings reports.

New 1924 highs were established by American Smelting, Maxwell Motors A, Sears Roebuck common and preferred, Commercial Solvents A, Simmons Company and Hudson & Manhattan preferred.

Fleischman sold down 3 points before it met support, recovering half its loss before noon. U. S. Tobacco preferred advanced 4 points which Commercial Solvents, Sears Roebuck, American Can, American Smelting and general Electric sold 2 to 2½ points above Monday's final quotations.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, the afternoon saw some substantial gains. American Woolen co-ferred, Copper Range and U. S. Smelting were all up better than a point, while the majority of active issues sold fractionally higher.

Railroad Bonds Are Leaders in Advance

Word that freight traffic for the week ended October 18 was the heaviest in the history of the railroads, combined with the continued flow of encouraging earnings reports for September, revived buying interest in railroad bonds in New York.

The demand embraced New York Central 6s, Omaha 6s, Seaboard adjustment 5s, Frisco 4s, Rock Island General 4s, Denver & Rio Grande 4½s and the St. Paul bonds which recently gains ranging from fractions to more than a point.

Public Utility liens also attracted support, advances of a point or so being recorded by Commonwealths, Edison 6s, North American 6s and Metropolitan Edison 6s. Warner Sugar issues rose 1 to 2 points, but considerable irregularity prevailed elsewhere in the industrial list.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK TO OPEN NEW OFFICE

First National Bank of Boston will open an additional office on November 1 at No. 240 Hanover street. The location is that now occupied by Julius Rottenberg Tailoring, Inc., private bankers, whose business is being acquired by the First National Bank of Boston.

The office will be in charge of Joseph E. Scanlon, an assistant cashier of the bank and manager of the Boylston street office. This will make ten offices now being operated by the First National in Boston.

Liberty Bond Prices

Liberty bond prices were: 3½s, 101.5; first 4s, 102.10 bid; second 4s, 101.15 bid; first 4¼s, 102.14; second 4¼s, 101.19; third 4¼s, 102.3; fourth 4¼s, 102.19; Treasury 4½s, 106.27.

THE "National Security League," apparently a rather timid, shaky, shivery organization, wanted Uncle Sam to refuse admittance to Countess Karolyi, wife of the former President of Hungary. A little common sense leaked in somewhere and the Countess was allowed to land here.

The "security" of this country of one hundred and twelve millions must be dubious and uncertain if it can't stand the arrival of a well educated, intelligent woman whose husband sought to establish in Hungary the kind of government that we have here.

A MAN eighty-six years old runs away with a girl of fourteen, his own step-grandchild. That's in Kentucky. In Chicago a girl of sixteen is accused of leading a band of robbers. In modern foolishness and crime the cradle and the grave seem mixed up.

Entering Period of Many Mergers Some Wall Street Men Believe

Only Way Out, They Say, to Correct Overproduction and Destructive Competition, Which Have Brought Various Industries Into Trouble

What's coming?

"Mergers," say the men who study the trend of national affairs. "We are likely to see consolidations within the next few years greater than those of twenty or twenty-five years ago that ushered in what we termed the trust period.

"Mergers are inevitable. Many of our industries are overequipped as a result of the tremendous expansion to which we were forced in meeting the needs of the war period. The aphorism 'competition is the life of trade' is, like all aphorisms, not wholly true. Excessive competition is disturbing trade.

"We had too much competition in transportation. The government is seeking to correct this by the Interstate Commerce law for grouping systems in certain zones.

"We have too much competition in the steel industry. There many plants could be forced out of business through competition in this field. The United States Steel Corporation, by its size and its multitude of units is capable of steel manufacturing, is able to produce steel at less cost than the so-called independents. A grouping of various of these independents would work for economy.

There is talk today of a group of 4 or 5 concerns that naturally complement each other into one body of which Bethlehem Steel will be the largest unit.

"The copper industry suffers re currently from overproduction, due to senseless and wasteful competition. Stabilization must come, as later we will put production costs up to a point where we will have difficulty in meeting foreign producers in competitive markets.

"We have a productive capacity in our bituminous coal fields somewhere between 33 1-3 and 50 per cent. greater than our requirements.

"We have overproduction in our oil industry that is reflected today in rate cutting in every part of the country.

"We have a textile industry that is overmachined and that has an overproduction even with drastic curtailment in many mill centers.

"So it goes through various industries.

"There is a strenuous waste in overproduction and, in the ultimate analysis, a profit to few or none, regardless of temporary price cuttings which seem to benefit consumers. There is distinct advance as to irregularity in employment. That is costly, too.

"A large corporation with many plants can, in time of restricted business, shut down plants where costs are high and operate where costs are low. If all these plants were operated independently it would mean rate cutting and cutthroat competition.

"Some get the idea that competition, honest competition, is not what we want, but the competition that disorganizes an industry may be as costly ultimately to the consumer as to the producer. And it is very costly to labor.

"Yes, we are in for consolidations, many mergers, I believe.

"And now the public mind has changed regarding monopolies! Today we practically have monopoly in the telephone business. We have practically monopoly in the telephone field. Once we had hundreds of telephone companies. Banks are on the way there. In Great Britain some banks have 1,000 or more branches. Here some of our banks are approaching out steadily.

"And the stores! How many has Woolworth? How many has the Childs? How many restaurants has Childs?

"Yes, we are in the era of mergers, and, I believe, we will have more of them than now seems probable."

VALUE OF IMPORTS IN FRANCE INCREASES

Value of France's imports from foreign countries, colonies and protectorates in the first eight months of 1924 totalled 26,044,575,000 francs, an increase of 6,127,640,000 francs over the same period last year, according to the Bankers' Trust Company of Paris. In 1913 imports of the United States aggregated 3,670,-567,000 francs; Great Britain 3,217,-450,000 francs and the Belgium-Luxembourg union was next with 1,713,-072,000 francs.

BETTERMENT IS FOUND IN HARDWARE

"Better business is reported from the leading hardware market centres. Trading is showing consistent improvement each week. Fall business appears to already have reached a point nearly equal to the volume recorded for the same time last year. Factory shipments are unusually prompt. Collections have improved materially in all sections and there appears to be a minimum of bad debts," Hardware Age will say this week.

"There are very few failures reported, and a very small number of new stores being started. There is also very little evidence of shopping with the result that prices generally are fairly firm.

"It is generally conceded that hardware prices will be subjected to readjustment and opinion is divided as to the nature of these adjustments. At press time it seems fair to say that the majority of those consulted do not look for important declines in the face of what they consider a firm and even rising material and labor market."

RECORD CROWD SEEKS CHICKIE TEA APRONS

We don't think a bigger crowd could be served from all the Chickie stations, but Saturday that thing happened.

Chickie Tea Aprons come in two colors, pretty green and just as pretty red. Both have ruffled rubber edges and ruffled rubber pockets—sewed and not cemented fast.

Golf Played After Dark by Light of Searchlights

Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Golf was successfully played after dark here by the light of a 400,000,000 candle-power searchlight, said to be the largest in the world, and other electric illuminations.

Gene Sarazen, former professional champion, conducted the exhibition as a part of the opening of the annual convention of the Illuminating Engineers' Society.

A 1,000,000 candle-power searchlight was mounted at the first tee. The 400,000,000 candle-power lamp was on a motor truck in a roadway, 200 feet from the side. All down the course the trees had been illuminated with hidden lamps and reflectors.

FIND MILLIONS AT BOTTOM OF THE OCEAN

New York, Oct. 28.—The hand of treasure hunters that for New York early this month to recover the gold, silver, copper and jewels, variously estimated at from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000, which went down with the steamship Merida when it sank off the Virginia Capes in 1911, has been rewarded with success in the first phase of the expedition.

The sunken ship has been located and next will begin the divers' task of reaching the treasures and bringing them to the surface.

Two trawlers, the Foam and Spray, formerly of Boston, dragged the waters in the vicinity where the Merida sank with a mile-long iron sweep. Ten days after the work began, the sunken ship was discovered.

Leaders of the treasure seeking expedition refuse to comment on the exact location for fear that hijackers may be attracted to the spot. Roughly, site lies 200 feet down, fifty-five miles east and half a mile north of Cape Charles.

The Merida, laden with her precious cargo, sank in May, 1911, when she was rammed at full speed by the steamship Admiral Farragut. The Ward Line, owners of the sunken craft, did not consider it a feasible proposition to undertake the salvaging of the ship.

A group of well-known New York men, including Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., Franklin I. Mallory and Heyward Drayton, 3rd, undertook to recover the lost treasure.

THIRTEEN "HIGH RATERS" AT SHEPARD'S GET GOLD

Ten-dollar gold pieces were presented to thirteen employes of the Shepard Stores by John Shepard, Jr., in the form of prizes given in the store restaurant to 100 workers rated highest in their separate departments for the past six months.

The dinner was the third of what have become known as "high raters' dinners." The employe with the highest rating in each department attends the dinner.

It was announced by Mr. Shepard at the dinner that early next May a daughter will be born to Mr. and Mrs. John Shepard, 3rd, the father being vice-president of the store.

THERE'S MORE WORK FOR SWORD MAKERS

Chicopee, Oct. 28.—The Ames Sword Company today announced that its plant, which has been running three days a week, will operate five days.

The factory, in addition to making swords, mainly for regalia for fraternal organizations, turns out ornamental bronzes.

She Spends Her Money Here

A Great Italian Artist—

Madame Amelita Galli Curci, whose picture you see, recently made her first appearance in London with immense success. Great crowds attend her concerts, the critics praise her wonderful voice and great "artistry."

What will interest readers is the fact that this great artist, born in Italy, lives in America and SPENDS HER MONEY IN AMERICA.

Madame Galli Curci will bring back and invest in the United States money that she makes in England, just as she has invested here the money that she has made in America, singing for the Metropolitan Opera Company and the Chicago Opera Company.

Madame Galli Curci does not live in America to make money and afterwards go to live and spend it abroad.

She has just built herself a magnificent house in the Catskill Mountains. There, surrounded by big farms at the end of Bellaire Mountain, near Highmount, Galli Curci spends her Summers and there, where she has built a beautiful music room with wide windows overlooking the Catskills, she expects to live the rest of her life.

If you have a daughter with a good voice, it will encourage you to know receipts at one Galli Curci concert have exceeded $25,000.

Remember, however, that good teachers of singing are very rare. More voices are ruined than made by so-called "singing teachers." Of one world famous teacher in France it has been truly said that dozens of American girls that went to this teacher, "left their money and their voices in Paris."

Candy From a Child

Success Is Easy

It's not hard to "take candy from a sick child." It isn't hard to succeed in the American struggle for life.

Hundreds of thousands have failed to collect State or national war bonuses, tens of millions of interests on government bonds have not been collected. Those entitled to bonus and bond interest have lacked knowledge or energy to collect.

The "struggle for existence" isn't much of a struggle and the "survival of the fittest" doesn't indicate any very great "fitness" here. Self-control, saving and avoiding get-rick-quick schemes are enough to guarantee fair success.

The "Truth" Drug

But the Criminal's Rights!

The famous scopolamin-apomorphia, or "compulsory truth teller," laughed at at first, is now taken seriously. It does actually compel criminals to tell the truth about their crimes, so the doctors say, and its use is advocated.

It certainly would be more humane than the ordinary "third degree," which consists in keeping the accused man awake or kicking him around the cell until he confesses.

However, there is something in the law about not compelling a man to incriminate himself. Has justice a right to compel a man to swallow a drug that WOULD compel him to incriminate himself? Can't the criminal say, "I refuse to swallow that scopolamin dose, on the ground that it might tend to incriminate or degrade me"?

It May Save Many

Useless to Napoleon

Dr. Devine, distinguished surgeon from Australia, says: "Instead of hiring a high-priced specialist to cut an ulcer out of your stomach simply sever the diseased part of the sympathetic nerve, for the ulcers develop from that nerve."

That information might have saved Napoleon, dying of such ulcers on St. Helena. But he probably would not have thanked the operator. The sooner he would get under the gilt dome of the Invalides, secure in his immortal glory as the world's most dramatic killer, the better for him.

WATCH YOUR BALLOT

ARE you familiar with the seven referendum questions which will appear on the State ballots on Election Day, November 4?

They will be run daily, and those who are unfamiliar with them are advised to clip each question and explanation for reference on Election Day.

REFERENDUM QUESTION NO. 5.

NO

Shall a law (Chapter 423 of the Acts of 1923) which amends existing legislation on the same subject and provides that, subject to certain limitations, no person shall engage or be financially interested in the business of receiving deposits of money for safe keeping or for the purpose of transmitting the same or equivalents thereof to foreign countries unless he has executed and delivered a bond to the State Treasurer, or deposited securities in lieu thereof, and has received a license from the Commissioner of Banks authorizing him to carry on such business; that any money which in case of breach of bond shall be paid by the licensee or surety thereon, or the securities deposited in lieu thereof, shall constitute a trust fund for the benefit of depositors; that the license shall be revocable by the Commissioner of Banks for cause shown; that the money deposited with licensees for safe keeping shall be invested in the manner prescribed by the act; and that the violation of any provision of the act shall be punished in the manner therein prescribed, which law was approved by both branches of the General Court by yeas and nays recorded, and was approved by His Excellency the Governor, be approved?

Referendum question No. 5 provides a law which aims to bring persons engaged in foreign banking business, that is the business of sending money abroad, under the supervision of the bank commissioner, and making them more responsible than at present. In other words, an amendment to give more protection to those who send money abroad through persons other than banks.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE worst thing about a domestic quarrel is the thought of all the brilliant wit and logic a woman wastes on a mere husband.

* * *

* * *

No man cares to hear the "wholesome truth" from the lips of a woman. Even Diogenes never went looking for an honest woman; and if he had accidentally found one, he would instantly have fled from her in sheer fright—or boredom.

* * *

Helen Rowland

No matter how persistently a man may have pursued and proposed to a girl, somehow, after marriage, he always begins to suspect that she "hired him into it."

* * *

"Our love," she said, "is a spiritual thing,
Beautiful, calm and wise—
Nor the passionate beating of hearts that sing,
But—oh, that look in your eyes!"

"Oh, love is a matter of mind!" she sighed.
With a wave of her finger tips,
A friendship sublimina!—glorified!
But—oh, for the touch of your lips!"

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Husband Insane

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband was recently placed in the insane asylum and there is little hopes for his being cured. I get about $12 from the State but after paying rent, etc., there is nothing left for clothes. I have two girls, ages 8 and 5 years, who take 9½ and 6½ size shoes and one boy, 7 years, who take 9½ size shoes. They all go to school. I wear size 38 and a 3 shoe. I can sew and make over anything. Also if any of your kind readers have anything in the toy line I would like to have it as Christmas will soon be here. MRS. R. A. M.

Need Warm Clothing

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the mother of four children and wish that some kind hearted person would give me some warm clothes for them as it is getting cold. They need Winter coats. The girls are 9 and 3 years of age, the boys tre 2 years and the other 3 months old. I also need a Winter coat, size 42, and my husband needs a suit, 36 or 38. He doesn't work steady. The baby has no coat either. Will be glad to get anything. MRS. M. B. I.

Dresses To Give

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a girl 15 and have some dresses I will be glad to give another girl of my age. Also we have some pants for a boy 12.

G. M.

Many thanks. Mrs. S. has a boy and girl just the ages you mention and they will be very glad to get your offering.

Boy Wants Coat

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a little boy, 8 years old, and I have no heavy coat or warm clothes. I would be so glad to get some of these things from some kind readers as I don't like to miss school. I will be thankful for anything I receive. ROBERT R.

Needs Many Things

Helping Hand Editor:

I have four children, three boys and a girl; boys ages are 12, 8, 5 and 3 years, and girl is 13. They are in need of underwear, shoes and clothing of all kinds. I would like to get some work between 2 and 2 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 or 10 in the evening. Anything would do, such as sweeping, cleaning offices, washing dishes, etc. I need my teeth extracted and I can't get the money, so please help me get something to do. I also am in need of bedding, etc., and clothing for myself, and shoes, size 4. I can sew so can fix over anything sent. MRS. F. M. S.

For 2-Year-Old Baby

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a few things, such as bonnet, dresses, etc., which will fit a two-year-old baby girl that I will gladly send to any address you give me. MRS. J. M.

Many thanks. Mrs. K., mother of several small children, will be glad to get this clothing for her two year old girl.

Wants to Board Police Dog

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a female German police dog, eight months old, that I cannot keep where I board and as I earn a small salary, cannot afford to board it out. As I will eventually make a change, would rather not sell her. Would some kind reader give her a home for a few months? She has been raised on a farm, is used to staying out of doors both night and day and is very affectionate. EVELYN G.

Need Entertainment

Helping Hand Editor:

We are a family of seven children and haven't any father. My mother is not well so we have to stay in nights and haven't any amusements. Is there any kind reader who has a victrola not being used that she would give to us? I would be so thankful.

Five Need Clothing

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has not been doing hardly any work since last February as he is a sickly man and not able to work steady. We are greatly in need of clothing. I have five children boys, 11, 8, 6 and 2 1-2 years old and a girl 9 years. The boy 11 needs underwear, stockings and shoes. I would be glad for anything you sent me as I am handy in making over things.

MRS. M.

Child Labor a National Evil

Apply a National Remedy

By EDWARD TALLMADGE ROOT,
Executive Secretary Massachusetts Federation of Churches.

WHEN the introduction of steam revolutionized industry in England, public sentiment awoke with a shock to discover that it brought a new menace to childhood.

Little children were found harnessed like animals to cars in the mines, or toiling for more than 12 hours in grimy factories.

Greed for profits stopped at nothing.

Mrs. Browning made their agony articulate in her "Cry of the Children:"

But the children, little children,
O my brothers,
They are weeping—in the playtime of the others."

Noble men persisted until the strong arm of the law appeared and the exploitation of immaturity was checked.

Moral Indignation.

But the same moral indignation was aroused here. State after State passed laws against child labor. Massachusetts has one of the best.

A member of our Senate recently told me: "Manufacturers have come to the State House year after year, to say, 'We believe in protecting child life. But do not raise the standard yet. We have to stand competition by other States. What we want is a National child labor law.

When that law was declared unconstitutional Congress made another attempt, in 1919, this time using its powers of taxation. The second law was in operation two years when the Supreme Court declared its enactment to have been beyond the federal power.

And so, an amendment was drawn giving to the Congress this specific power and it was passed this year by a vote of 61 to 23 in the Senate and a vote of 297 to 69 in the House.

This Amendment must be ratified by the Legislatures of 36 States. One State already has ratified. Few others have had the opportunity to act.

National Evil.

Thus, in the most emphatic manner possible, Congress has three times declared that child labor is a national evil, requiring a national remedy.

Both great parties, in three successive presidential campaigns, joined in that assertion.

All three of the leading Presidential candidates of 1924 favor the Amendment. It is unanimously supported by the Massachusetts Federation of Churches. The Greater Boston Federation has just endorsed it.

When the representatives of the people have thus emphatically recognized the necessity of federal action, how is it that there should be such opposition, now that the General Court of Massachusetts, in Referendum No. 7, asks the voters whether ratification is desirable?

Is it not a fair presumption that those who have heard the arguments pro and con, and have studied the question for years, are right?

To most voters, the question is new. They do not realize that the Amendment is the result of agitation and experiment for a century. If it strikes them unfavorably, is it not likely that they misunderstand the proposition?

Question Misunderstood.

This is not a law, but an amendment to the Constitution for the purpose of giving to the National Government some of the power long exercised by the States.

Any law, passed under this power, will be subject to long discussion in the light of public opinion in all the States.

"The assertion, 'We cannot trust Congress,' proves too much. It would mean that the world's most carefully devised system of government is a failure. Could anarchist or Communist say more?

It is said: "The Government will come into your house and tell the girl that she need not wash the dishes. The boy will be told that he need not do the chores."

Was ever SUCH a law enacted by any State or nation?

Children may work wholesomely and profitably, as most of us know by experience; but their employment under conditions that interfere with physical development, education, and the recreation which children require, is an economic waste, a social crime, a political menace.

It sacrifices efficiency in maturity. It mars the most valuable machines which civilization possesses—human bodies and minds.

It is claimed that the evil is exaggerated. Congress could have been convinced only by cold facts.

Age of Eighteen.

The census of 1920 found MORE THAN A MILLION CHILDREN BETWEEN THE AGES OF TEN AND SIXTEEN GAINFULLY EMPLOYED, one in every twelve of all the children of those ages in America.

But why the age of "18?"

States like our own have exercised similar power up to the age of 21. Up to the latter age a person is a minor. Full maturity of the body does not come. In adopting an amendment giving the federal government power for the future any lower limit would have been absurd.

How Congress will use the power has been shown by the two laws it passed. So little did THEY interfere with the action of the States that the Convenion of Labor Officials, at which 27 States were represented, including our own, urged the United States Senate to pass the resolution which already had been adopted by the House of Representatives.

No law which Congress is likely to pass will set as high a standard as Massachusetts already possesses.

The Amendment will have NO effect in Massachusetts, except to protect us from the competition of far lower standards elsewhere, a protection for which our manufacturers long have been pleading.

By DR. FRANK CRANE

RECENTLY, at Wembly, the splenders of the Empire Pageant were dimmed for many by the sight of a row of stretchers placed on the platform of honor in the Stadium, supporting over thirty men broken in the Empire's War. They were incurable patients from St. David's Home, Ealing, and had been asked to see the pageant by the generosity of Sir William Furse.

The cripples and wrecks of humanity that remain with us are pitiful reminders of the stupidity of mankind in settling its international quarrels by war.

The war's front may be splendid enough with the beating of drums, the blare of trumpets and the march of troops. But after war, the spectacle of the maimed, the bruised and broken, leads to the conclusion that there is nothing more terrible than a defeat, except a victory.

It is difficult to see the good that has come out of the late war, with Germany bankrupt, France in a bad way, and England struggling with her high taxes and unemployment. If the people had been consulted, instead of the few leaders, there would have been no war.

It is the people who pay and the spectacle at Wembly was a striking illustration of the terms of their payment.

Most people want to go on and lead their lives reasonably and this ambition is interrupted by the ambition of the few rulers who are willing to sacrifice the multitude for their own advantage.

If we could always keep before us the picture of those who are broken and wounded by the wars there would never be another one.
